

Enjoy the Beauty

I am from bustling passersby, drumming on buckets, car exhaust, and reflective, towing, dream-catching magnificence.

I am from the birthplace of Dracula, the land of ambition, and of arts and rhythm.

I am from supposed rich and undesirable but rather smart, beautiful, and proud.

I come from a place that is divided and masked. Masked and patient. Patient and brave, waiting to see them smiling and laughing again, hugging and kissing again, traveling and exploring the depth of our curious hearts.
