DR. COOPER OPENS ALUMNI LECTURES

ANTHROPOLOGIST

Gives Fine Discourse on Missions and Man

"Facts disprove that there is any 'secret antagonism' between religion and science," Dr. John M. Cooper contended in his lecture the first of the series of Alumni lectures at the Sinton Hotel, Sunday evening, January 23.

A small Indian tribe of north-eastern Canada was used by Dr. Cooper in demonstrating the relation between the so-called civilized people and the so-called barbarian people. "Many anthropologists," said Dr. Cooper, "visit a primitive tribe in some isolated part of the world and immediately give the world a volume on the differences that exist between the barbarian and the civilized man; as a matter of fact, there is no appreciable difference. Facts show that where there is but two per cent difference, there is ninety-eight per cent correspondence." Continuing, Dr. Cooper told the interested assembly, "During the fifty years from 1850 to 1900, scientists did much theorizing; while from 1900 to 1920, facts proceeded to bowl over each and every theory. Facts, facts, facts," emphasized the speaker, "are what we want; now the time is ripe; now, or never, the harvest must be gathered."

"Our own civilization is slowly arising from the minds of different American Indian tribes, their own respective primitive civilizations; thus our scientific research into the various unwritten histories of primitive civilizations must be hurried along. Facts of vital importance to our own advanced study of the family, religion and the mind lie concealed in the past primitive civilizations."

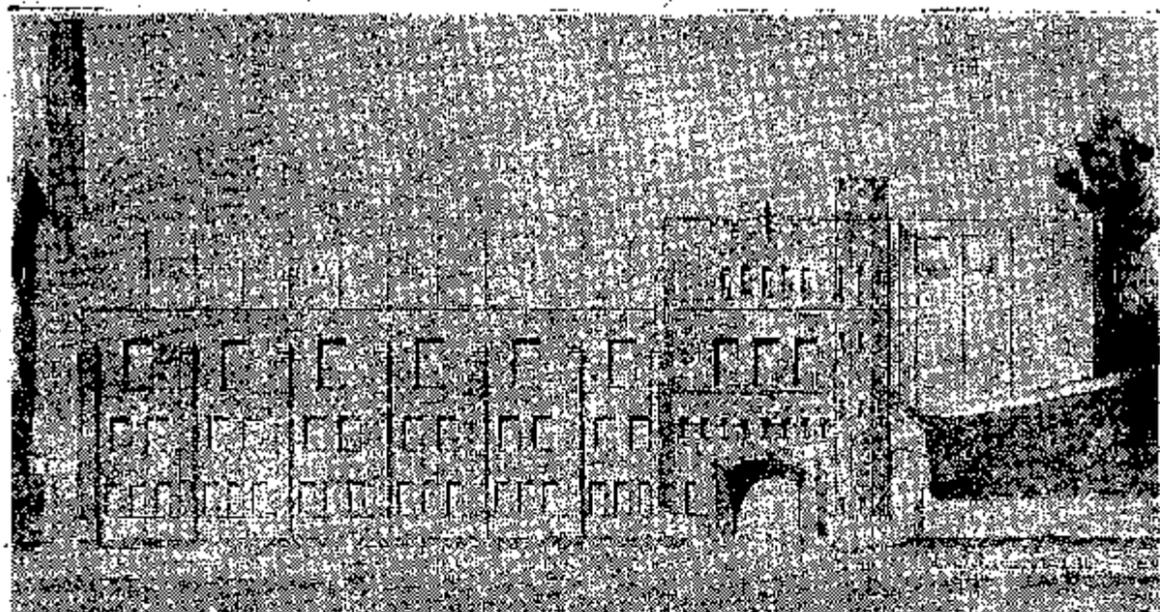

Dr. Cooper concluded his lecture with a description of the task which last year was undertaken by the American Catholic Anthropological Conference. Twenty-four different missionary orders are enlisted in the ranks of science; they will carefully gather facts and send them into headquarters; the facts will be published and thus we shall do our bit toward the mental progress of the age.

It was announced before the lecture that four more lectures will be given during the present series under the auspices of the Alumni Association of St. Xavier College. The dates, subjects and speakers will be announced later.

Former Xavierian Honored

Mr. George F. Fee, who attended St. Xavier College two years ago, was recently admitted to the national law fraternity, Phi Delta Phi. Mr. Fee left St. Xavier to begin law work at the University of Cincinnati. He was admitted into the Phi Delta Phi, Saturday, January 15. The fraternity is a national one to which the better law students are eligible.

MUSKETEER FIELD HOUSE

Courtesy Commercial Tribune.

Work on the new college gymnasium and field-house, which will cost approximately $900,000 will start soon. Joseph B. Steinkamp and Brother, architects, drew the plans for the building, while the general contract was given to the Leibold-Farrell Company.

Practically every modern device necessary in physical education will be included in the new building. Hand ball, volley ball, squash tennis, boxing, wrestling and gymnastic rooms will be provided in the new building.

The site of the gymnasium will be north of Elet Hall, and will face Winding Way. It will be 304 feet wide by 228 feet long, containing the amphitheater. The latter will be 104 by 220 feet, or a total of 22,800 square feet in the area. There will be 4,000 permanent seats in the amphitheater or "indoor stadium." One of the features of this amphitheater will be a dirt floor permitting the students to engage indoors in outdoor games during all seasons of the year.

The new gymnasium will be the chief means of furthering the health program for St. Xavier students started two years ago by Dr. William H. P. Emerson, nationally famous nutrition expert of Boston, Mass. Proper accommodations will greatly facilitate the work of the health directors.

MITTMEN

Defeated by Notre Dame

The Musketeer boxers met defeat in their opening meet of the intercollegiate season, last Friday evening, when the "Fighting Irish" of Notre Dame won all six bouts of the evening. However, the Musketeers were not outclassed so much as the result of the meet indicates as three of the six bouts were forced to go four rounds before the judges could render a decision.

The opening bout of the night was between Guy Lorringer, of Notre Dame, and Billy Clines, of St. Xavier, bantamweights. The bout was rather hard fought and exceedingly close, so that at the close of the third round the judges were unable to agree, and the men were forced to go four rounds. At the end of the fourth round the judges awarded the decision to Lorringer.

Mike O'Keefe, of Notre Dame, and Eddie Hahn, featherweights, were next on the program, and O'Keefe, former intercollegiate champ, proved to strong for Eddie and he won the decision on points. This was the second bout between these two men, as they met in the Xavier-Notre Dame meet at Cincinnati last spring.

The third bout of the evening brought together Ted Schmidt, for the Musketeers, and Frank Garcia, for Notre Dame. This was another close and interesting bout and Garcia was awarded the decision only after an extra round had been fought. At that many of the spectators disagreed with the judges as Schmidt put up a wonderful fight and deserved to win.

Louis Boeh, ace of the Xavier squad, forced Jack Duquette, of Notre Dame, to go four rounds before the latter was able to gain a decision. The Xavier ace was unable to get going in his usual style, as he seemed to be in true form in only the second and third rounds. However, Lou put up a good fight, and the ace promises to get vengeance on Duquette when the two meet in the Xavier-Notre Dame meet on February 18th in Cincinnati.

Eddie Burns, St. Xavier, and Pat Canny, Notre Dame, put on the most exciting bout of the evening in the middleweight class. In the first round, Burns made Canny look bad and seemed to be on the road to victory, but in the second round and third round, Canny outpunched Burns and was given the decision on points.

Jack McGrath, Notre Dame, won on a technical knockout from Joe Buerger, St. Xavier, when Coach Greene deemed it inadvisable to continue the bout after Buerger had been floored in the first round. These men were heavyweights. This bout concluded the program and found Notre Dame ahead six points to none, but with three overtime fights, the Musketeers have nothing to worry about, as overtime bouts very seldom occur.

Father Lord, S. J., to Lecture

A further lecture in the Alumni series will be given February 27 when Rev. Daniel Lord, S. J., noted essayist and playwright will speak on the "Philosophy of George Bernard Shaw." Father Lord delivered the baccalaureate address to the class of '26.

Junior Prom Friday Night At Hotel Sinton Ballroom Promises Much For Undergrads

Days have vanished into the hours which remain of grueling semester examinations and then—Friday night, the Prom of 1927. These, formulas and blue books will dissolve in the tantalizing tunes of Fred Damien and "His Greenwich Villagers," the band that will provide the rhythm for the evening.

The contract with Damien and His Orchestra was made after a prodigious array of entertaining organizations were considered by the committee. Enthusiastic press reports of the sensation made by the Greenwich Villagers in New Orleans, where they have been playing for the past four months, were decisive in contracting the orchestra. Following the Prom, the Orchestra is booked for an indefinite stay at the Book-Cadillac Hotel, Detroit.

A fast and novel array of entertainment will follow each dance. It is the idea of the committee to have no "intermission" from the grand march till "Home Sweet Home." A "War Dance," the exact nature of which has not been revealed will be one of these features.

Musketeer Spirit will be brought to the Prom by the playing of the College Song, which has been specially orchestrated in fox trot time. The Xavier Marching Song has also been arranged for dance orchestra for use during the grand march.

Elaborate lighting effects will assist in the plan of having the decorations simple but effective.

Mr. Mark Schmidt, president of the Senior Class will lead the grand march in company with Miss Virginia Tompkins of Avondale.

Time and skill have been liberally used by the Juniors to make their Prom criterion of future efforts, and from all indications they have succeeded in accomplishing their purpose.

HEALTH

"Mens sana in corpore sano." That is what the students at St. Xavier College are being taught either directly or indirectly every day. Yet our health clinic or department, if you prefer, is the most neglected part of the college. When the college inaugurated the health movement last year through Dr. Emerson of Dartmouth, many students laughed; well, we will forgive them for that, because there were some things quite funny about the beginning. But today, under Miss Clara Schultheis, a trained nurse, the health department is different; it is the most important part of the college, we believe, whether student patronage is falling or not.

Today, the world seems to be chiefly concerned about two things, money and health. Day after day, the press flings health at the public; eminent medical men write articles after articles on the subject "How to be Healthy;" magazines feature health stories; broadcasting stations have their weekly health talks. Formerly, that is farther back than twenty-five years, public health was never mentioned; people, in their own crude ways used home remedies. And it is not recorded how they suffered. In our own day, remedy is never mentioned; preventive measures are always featured; and yet, while a large part of the public take advantage, many pay no attention; some even laugh.

Young men, as a rule, are not conscious of their physical existence; usually, the bold young blade of the twentieth century eats what and whenever he can; sleeps when he can, works when he must, and spends the rest of his time playing. That may be all right, but, health, the efficient cause of his very happiness, he never gives a thought.

As for the students of St. Xavier College, many are taking advantage of the fine health department, which the authorities have sponsored; yet interest is lagging; students with certain health programs to follow are tending to put aside those programs; others resent the rules and do not practice what the nurse advises. Miss Schultheis wishes all to continue whatever health practices they have started, and to check up constantly their general health.

The students here have been blessed, generally, with good health. The health department will keep that general good health and improve any small deficiencies if the students will only permit it. Professors assure a sound mind in the majority, but the individual must assure himself of a sound body.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS AT ST. XAVIER

Discussed By Philopadians

The meeting of the Philopadian Society on January 17, witnessed what the critic declared to be "the most interesting, if not the best debate of the year." "Resolved: That the students of St. Xavier College be permitted to hold more than one social function a year," was the topic, one naturally quite close to the student heart.

Lloyd Byrne, '28 and Paul Cain, '29, represented the Affirmative side of the question. Both were quite well prepared and both presented good arguments. They argued that a greater number of social events at the College would raise the student's standard of a good time, lessen the danger of the public dance hall as regards the student, and while providing necessary relaxation for the college man, promote friendship and college spirit.

William Wise, '30 and Anthony Daddens, '29 vigorously opposed the arguments of the Affirmative. In defense of the Negative, Mr. Daddens in particular, masterfully presented some very telling issues. 1. Social affairs place too much superfluous expense on the student. 2. It is unwise for students to attend too many social affairs and unwise for the college authorities to sponsor them. 3. Such affairs take too much of the student's time for study.

The rebuttals were good, and Messrs. Daddens and Byrne showed to very fine advantage in their rejoinders. Following the debate, a rather lively discussion as to the relative desirability of informal and formal dances, and on the Junior Prom in general, took place from the house.

The Judges, Albert Gaiser, '29; Wirt Russel, '29 and Robert Deters, '30 awarded the decision to the Affirmative. Critic, Edmund Doyle, '30 named Mr. Daddens as the outstanding speaker of the day.

Father Walsh criticized the debate as betraying an entirely too circumscribed idea of what social functions are, on the part of the debaters. He declared that the college plays, and, in fact, any affair that brings together the students and their parents or girl friends should rightfully be considered social functions.

CLEF CLUB

Is Name Adopted by Musketeer Songsters

At the regular meeting of the St. Xavier College Glee Club on Tuesday, January 18, a new name was chosen by the members for their organization. Professor David Davis, the musical director, submitted several names suitable for the club. From this list the members selected the Clef Club of St. Xavier College. It is expected that this name will be used by all St. Xavier clubs of a similar nature to be formed in the coming year.

The club at present numbers forty-five members. All are working diligently in order to present to the student body and the general public of Cincinnati a musical concert on February 11, at the Odeon.

The program as arranged so far will consist of eleven numbers by the Clef Choral Club; two barytone solos by Walter Ryan; a piano solo by Eugene Parazzo, the accompanist; two solos by John K. Mussio, the Faculty Director of the club; and violin selections by Murray Paddock. This concert will be a student activity and the Clef Club invites as many students as possible to attend their initial appearance.

Y. M. C. A. VICTORS

Musketeers Fall Behind in Second Half

The Musketeers received their second setback of the season at the hands of the Y. M. C. A. Wildcats by a score of 43 to 26. The score hardly tells the closeness of the game for it was only in the last few minutes that the Wildcats were able to roll up a commanding lead. The game was featured by the brilliant play of Taylor, former Miami star, and Captain Lohr for the "Y", while Chip Cain was the best for the Musketeers.

The Wildcats assumed the lead soon after the start of the game when Eferet Harrington called two successive fouls on Tom Eagan, and Taylor made all four shots good. Another bucket by Lohr and two more fouls and the "Y" had a lead of eight points. Captain Kelly called time at this juncture and the Musketeers pulled together and soon were in striking distance of the Wildcats. Several times the Blue and White advanced to within two points of the "Y" only to have the former International Champs pull away to a greater lead. The first half ended with the Musketeers on the short end of a 23 to 19 score.

In the second half, Xavier couldn't get going and the "Y" boys rolled up a commanding lead to put the Musketeers hopelessly in the rear. Captain Kelly and his cohorts kept on battling, but were unable to overcome the powerful lead of the Wildcats, so that the game ended with the "Y" leading 43 to 26.

AVOCATION COURSES

was announced Wednesday at the weekly chapel assembly by Rev. D. M. O'Connell, S. J., Dean. The course will require addresses and lectures by men prominent in the business and professional world in Cincinnati and vicinity.

While the course is not novel, it will mark an epoch at the local institution. Dean O'Connell indicated that the program of speakers will be announced as soon as completed. The course will start with the opening of the second semester, February 1.

"Too frequently the college graduate finds himself in a quandary concerning the walk of life for which he is fitted," Dean O'Connell commented on the new course, "and the Board of Trustees at St. Xavier have authorized the establishment of the course for the welfare of the student body."

The Dean said that representatives of the major professions, branches of mercantile and manufacturing activities and the arts would give lectures.

Professor Replies to Enquirer Editorial

On the editorial page of The Enquirer, Tuesday, January 18, there appeared a letter of Rev. Charles A. Meehan, S. J., Professor of Psychology at St. Xavier, replying to an interesting editorial entitled "Science Religious" in the Sunday issue of the same paper. Though agreeing with the writer on some points, Father Meehan ably refutes several false statements made by the writer; particularly as to whether religion must depend on faith alone to justify a belief in some of its claims.

PRIZES AWARDED

For Ticket Sale

At the end of last week, Father Woland announced the winners of the ticket selling contest held in connection with "Iolanthe," presented at Emery Auditorium two weeks ago. To Joe Neville, unlimited praise is justly due. With the beginning of the contest, Joe set to work and sold seventy-four tickets, thereby earning for himself the first prize. This large number also helped, or rather caused, his room to get a prize, for distributing more tickets than any other class. All by himself, Neville sold more tickets than seven different rooms. The boy in each class who sold the most tickets was allowed to draw for another reward. These high men were Neville, Koehler, Lins, Meyer, Schwab, Toohay, Foltz, Curran, Koebel, Markey and Puttkoff. Jack Koehler, of Four B, drew the lucky number. 1C with 116 tickets sold, 4B with ninety nine, 3D with 95 were also well up in the contest.

The following list shows the number of tickets sold by each class.

WINNERS OF ESSAY CONTESTS

Since the winners of the prize essay contest held in third and fourth years before Christmas have recently been decided we take pleasure in announcing them.

The subject of the Senior class contest, "The Crime Wave," allowed much freedom to all those competing. The student might tell about the horrible crime condition in the United States today, showing its devastating effects. Again he might dwell upon its countless causes. Still he had the privilege to branch off into the subjects of "youth of today," "prohibition," or "immigration." Joseph E. Dressman, of 4D, was awarded first prize for his fine efforts over Norbert Matros and Daniel L. O'Brien, both of Fourth B, who won second and third places, respectively.

The third year contest afforded an equally broad subject, "Dickens' Art of Characterization." References to specific characters, incidents and situations in different works of Dickens, were means by which the subject could be developed. After much deliberation the judges awarded the first prize of the essay to Louis Feldhaus of 3A, while Bernard Menkhous of 3C and Leonard Gruber of 3B ranked second and third, respectively. —Bill Earls.

Xavier Quintet Defeats Newport Cagers In Fast Game At Memorial Hall

AURORA UPSETS DOPE AND WINS 18-16; IN EXTRA PERIOD; ELDER CLASH FRIDAY

Memorial Hall saw a rather slow game Tuesday afternoon, January 18th, when Xavier overwhelmed Newport with an avalanche of baskets, to win 25-14. Our team took the lead at the start and held a comfortable margin all the way through. However, the Newport boys are a fighting team and refused to quit. They played to win right up to the end, and thus gave the spectators a good show.

Scoring

Sack alone scored almost as much as the entire Newport team, sinking three buckets and four free tosses for a total of ten. Egbers was second high with six points; Puttman ran close to him with five, while Hesselbrock and Mercurio tallied two points each. Sack, Puttman and Hesselbrock were relieved by Landawitach, Mollerling and MacKenna at the half, when it became apparent that Xavier had the game salted away. For the Kentucky team, Tibbatts and Seibert led the scoring, one with six and the other with five points, while Rieddle and Kreuter played a fine guarding game.

AURORA

Friday, January 21st, saw the Xavier cagers playing the Aurora high school team at Aurora, Indiana. The score at the end of the second half was 14-14, and in the extra period, Aurora dropped two long shots and won 18-16. The game was particularly disappointing because our team led the scoring all the way through and appeared sure of victory.

Too Tough

The Hoosier quintet was outplayed, there can be no doubt about it. Our team showed best both on offensive and defensive, but the glass banking boards seemed to ruin their aim. Even with the unusual boards, however, our boys led the scoring until the last minute. The score at the quarter was 3-2, favor "X"; at the half, 12-7, favor "X"; and 14-12 just before the final whistle. Then Martin, Aurora center, got one off from the center of the floor and an extra period was necessary. After this, Aurora did not bother to take the ball down the floor; when they got it, they shot it, and Jackson and Driver each bagged one to win the game. This contest was simply and purely a "tough break!" As the team wit dolorously declared, "They can't be figured, darn it!"

Mercurio was the best individual scorer of the contest with six points. Sack tallied five; MacKenna, three, and Egbers, two.

HEAR YE!

On Friday, January 28th, St. Xavier will clash with the strong Elder high quintet. Elder has a better basket ball team than she has had for several years. They are being touted far and wide as the team that has not lost a game. They will undoubtedly come to Memorial Hall, Friday night, determined to avenge their decisive defeat in football. Whoever wins, the game is certain to be full of thrills and fight. So be down in the gym about six o'clock, to be sure of a seat, and our boys will show you an exhibition of real basket ball skill that will more than compensate for this dreary week of exams.

Re-venge!

Another good game in the near future is that with Hamilton, at Hamilton, Ohio, next Tuesday. Hamilton beat us once, but the Hamilton men were all old hands at the game, while several on our team were still green. These men, however, have now had experience in several more games, and will naturally play much better. The team expects to take this game, fellows, but it needs support. Every game played on a foreign floor this year, even those with the Ludlow and Dayton teams, was marked by a conspicuous absence of Xavier rooters. Well, so long, boys, see you at the Hamilton game!

FUND GROWING

As Drive Nears Close

Since last week, Annual money has been pouring into our treasury and we sincerely welcome the arrival of the payments. The number of those students who have forgotten to bring their $2.50 are slowly but surely dwindling down to a paltry few. In almost every class, all the students have paid except a tardy two or three. One class, Fourth "A", is entirely paid up. Let's follow their good example, fellows, and soon you'll be able to read the best Annual in the country. The list of classes and the amounts contributed follow:

The chemistry essays were handed to the professor, Mr. Kowalewski, last Monday, the 24th. These essays will be gone over by the science teachers and probably handed back to the students for revision. It is the hope of all that a few of these essays might be sent to Washington to compete in the national contest, so that St. X. may add to its good name by having a winner.—Ed. Bruggemann.

The Library, only recently remodeled, will soon contain a number of new books.

Several hundred dollars worth of books, mostly popular fiction, are on the way, so that soon the students will have a large, new assortment to delight in.—Ed. Bruggemann.

AN INTERVIEW

At last I was in the great singer's presence. Hershey Bahr, the sweetest singer of the age; the "Cooling Canary of the Catskills"; the "Lilting Lulu of the Lambagoes"; the "Warbling Wille of the Walls Wallas"; the "Singing Sully of the Smearchases!"—I was in his presence at last.

He greeted me at the door, saying, "Good Morning."

I was surprised. When one meets a great singer he may expect to be slapped in the face with a dishcloth or a pickax, and anyone who objects to a mere thing like a smash in the face with a hastily-grabbed board is over critical. So, as I believe I have already mentioned, I was surprised.

"I am a reporter," I said.

He told me to go ahead and report.

"What," I asked, "do you think of Prohibition?"

"That depends."

"On what?"

"On what prohibition is," he replied, uncorking a bottle.

"Have one?" he asked.

"I couldn't think of it!" said I, aghest.

"Neither could I," he replied, "the fact is, I don't—I just drink it."

"What would you advise a young singer to do?" I questioned.

"I'd advise 'em to kill themselves," was the reply. "There's too many n this singin' game now."

I left him then.

My personal opinion is (I know you'll value it):

Hershey Bahr should be allowed to enter the home for imbeciles without an examination.—John Healy, '29.

DREAMING

Oft I dream of silent Egypt,
Of Mahal's alabaster crypt,
Of Chinese junk and Chinese yan,
Of dark and silent Indian men.
When the silver moon comes sneaking,
Sneaking past my window pane.

Oft I muse on Italy race,
With sapphire Naples shining there,
Oft I dream of the lakes of Kilarnay,
With the wee, wee fairies and bit-o-larnay,
When the silver moon comes sneaking,
Sneaking past my window pane.

Oft I dream of Brussels and France,
Think of the wild Boror's shining lance,
With the silver pines and gleaming trees,
And softly murmuring South African seas,
When the silver moon comes sneaking,
Sneaking past my window pane.

All the world is open to me,
Sailing on the moonbeam sea,
Just traveling here and traveling there,
With never a single bothersome care,
When the silver moon comes sneaking,
Sneaking past my window pane.
—John Healy, '29.

JUNIOR AND SOPHOMORE TEAMS TRAINING

Mr. J. E. Reardon, S. J., now has his three teams organized, and is drilling them almost daily. His Junior squad compares favorably with any such organization in surrounding schools. The Junior squad is well known as it has already played several games, mostly preliminary at Memorial Hall. This quintet has the reputation that it has not yet lost a game. The Freshmen and Sophomore squads both have plenty of material, and need only the experience and coaching to develop into fine teams. Mr. Reardon is giving them coaching pretty regularly, and they will get the experience soon as an extensive schedule has already been arranged. In fact, they have received more requests to play than they can possibly grant.

On Johnny Nolan, of 3A, falls the task of caring for the suits and other equipment. An athletic manager usually has his hands full caring for one team, as witness Joe Neville, but here is poor little Johnny looking after three large squads. But at that he seems to enjoy it, so don't disillusion him. Here is how his charges line up:

The Freshman Team

Bimacobe, McShane, Fritch, Elbert, Sandman, Kail, Joseph, Wiethe and Koch.

The Sophomore Team

Greeniger, Phelan, Madden, Theman, Settlemyer, Husty, Meyers, Hackett and Kehoe.

The Junior Team

Hope, Zeigler, Budds, Horan, H. Lynch, Stebers and Desmond.

CO-OPS CORNER

CO-OPS ATTEND MEETINGS

From the large attendance at the semi-annual monthly meetings of the board of directors of the Co-ops it is evident that the efforts of Mr. Herbert Lonnemann have been successful in renewing the spirit of co-operation characteristic of the members of this society. He is to be congratulated as he certainly can utilize their assistance to a splendid advantage, with the annual dance and annual banquet before him.

ACCOUNTANTS TEST HONOR SYSTEM

The fact that the students of the fourth and third year accounting class were permitted to take their mid-year exam without being under the surveillance of a tutor, is certainly a tribute to their integrity. Mr. Crane the professor for this course, compiled the exam while reclining in his bed with a severe case of mumps.

TONIGHT IS THE NIGHT FOR CO-OPS

The Co-ops annual dance and card party will be held tonight at the Gibson Roof Garden. The various committees have worked diligently and Mr. Herbert Lonnemann and Miss Margaret Strotman promised that it will be an event long to be remembered.

TREASURER'S OFFICE

Mr. Purdy's office is situated to the right of the main entrance of the college upon Sycamore street. This information is for the benefit of students who desire to pay their second and final installment upon tuition. The usual business policy, two per cent ten days, net thirty days does not prevail. Attorney fees accumulated in collection of tuition are chargeable to the individual student.

C. & S. STUDENTS HAVE THEIR TROUBLES

The month of January is certainly a time of woe to the average night school student. The gaiety and frivolity characteristic of the holidays render concentration upon studies a very difficult task. In addition to this there is the dreaded mid-semester exam, demanding nights of preparation. And last and most disastrous of all is the semi-annual tuition, popping up at a most embarrassing time, when the average youth's financial reserve has reached a very alarming stage of depletion.

C. & S. STUDENT GIVES TESTIMONIAL

Is a commercial education such as is offered by the St. Xavier School of Commerce and Sociology, a distinct advantage to the youth of the business world of today? Frequently such a question is heard. Not only as a conviction to the unbeliever but also as a commendation for the splendid way in which the commercial course of St. Xavier has been established and continued, we quote the following statement of Mr. John Schottelkotte, who will receive his certificate of accountancy this June: "Prior to my enrollment at St. Xavier I remained at a standstill in the office in which I was working. And not only this, but my ambitions were at a standstill. Immediately upon entering St. Xavier I became thoroughly enthused in the subject of accountancy and the insignificance of my present position began to dawn upon me. From then on I continually sought new occupations centering my ambitions upon one line."

Today this same gentleman has complete charge of the cost department of The Worthington Pump Co., of Elmwood, Ohio. He is assisted by Mr. Higgins who is also a student of St. Xavier.

SPEED AND SKILL

Shown by Musketeers in Defeating St. Louis U.

The Musketeers returned to form last Saturday night when they overwhelmed the University of St. Louis by a score of 54 to 21. In direct contrast to their preceding game with the "Y" the Xavier quintette started off in the lead and St. Louis found it an impossible task to stop the Musketeer offense. Chip Cain, Andy McGrath, and Ray Leeds were the star performers of the evening rolling up 41 points between them. For St. Louis, Steinger and Captain Knight were the best, the latter startling the crowd with several unusually long baskets.

The St. Louis team offered rather stiff opposition for the first few minutes, but after that the Musketeers scored almost at will. Ray Leeds scored the first bucket of the evening on a beautiful crisp shot and this effort was duplicated a moment later by the inimitable Chip Cain, who seems to improve with each game. Kelly tossed a foul and St. Louis called time. Captain Knight of the visitors then proceeded to loop one in the bucket from his own foul line making the score 5 to 2. Xavier then ran up a lead of 21 to 13 and soon found themselves able to take it rather easy. The half ended with the score 26 to 13 in favor of the Blue and White.

The second half was a runaway for the Musketeers for St. Louis was unable to keep Xavier forwards from scoring, while at the same time Kelly and Egan kept one goal well protected. Cain, McGrath, and Leeds looped them in regularly and at no time the Musketeers were leading by more than 25 points. St. Louis managed to score a few baskets toward the end of the game, but it availed them little for when the final whistle blew the Musketeers were leading 54 to 21.

Between the halves assistant athletic director, John Noppenberger, presented the football letter men with their monogram sweaters for the past football season. "Noppy" announced that it would be an annual affair to present the sweaters at one of the big basketball games.

REV. A. BURROWES, S. J.

DEATH OF FATHER BURROWES, S. J.

Brings Expressions of Sincere Sorrow

The death of Rev. Alexander Burrowes, S. J., last Wednesday brought professions of profound regret from those who were intimate with him in life and from those who attended St. Xavier while he was her president.

Father Burrowes died at the Good Samaritan Hospital in this city after being confined there for two months. He had been stationed at the Tertianship of the Jesuit Order at Hot Springs, North Carolina.

The remains laid in state in the parlor of the high school Thursday afternoon, and many came to pay their final tribute to one who had worked unceasingly for St. Xavier during and after his rectorship.

The funeral services were conducted Friday morning at St. Xavier Church, where the office of the dead was sung at 9:30, followed by a Requiem Mass. Very Rev. J. J. O'Callaghan, S. J., Vice-Provincial was the celebrant. His Grace, Archbishop McNichols, gave the last absolution. Internment was had at the Novitiate of the Missouri Province in Florissant, Missouri.

Father Burrowes held many offices in the Society of Jesus, the highest of which was the Provincialship. Other offices were the Rectorship of St. Louis University, Marquette University, Loyola University, Chicago, and the tertianship at Cleveland.

It was under Father Burrowes that St. Xavier inaugurated its extension lectures in 1894 and its graduate courses in 1896. This lecture course was the nucleus from which the present extension course developed.
