FIELD HOUSE DEDICATION AND ST. XAVIER-CINCY GAME ATTRACTS WIDE ATTENTION

DOWNING HEADS COMMITTEE

Richard B. Downing has been appointed chairman of the ring committee for the class of '28, according to the announcement of William M. Collins, class president. Other members of the committee are: Anthony T. Deddens and John W. Wilks.

An effort will be made for the Juniors to have their insignias before the close of the present school year, Downing indicated.

ADERMETHY IN TIE AT NOTRE DAME

St. X. Captain Becomes Olympic Prospect.

John Abernethy, St. Xavier track team captain and Olympic prospect, tied for first place in the high jump event of the Central Intercollegiate track and field meet held at the Notre Dame University field house Saturday.

The Musketeer captain jumped six feet, four and five-eighths inches to tie with Cline, Central State Teachers, and Muskegon, Muskegon.

St. Xavier was also represented by Jack Mahony, star dash man, in the 100 and 200 yard dashes and the 65-yard low hurdles. Mahony failed to place in these events.

The Notre Dame team won the meet with a total of 97 1-3 points. Abernethy's efforts earned 3 1-3 points for St. Xavier.

An indoor track and field meet at Louisville, Ky., in the near future will probably be entered by the St. Xavier track team.

Besides Abernethy and Mahony the personnel of the track team includes Frank O'Brien, high jump and pole vault; Hal Stoeberly, shot put; Bob Blacklock, dashes and mile run; and Jack Downing, Matt Algeyer and Tim Hogan, relay men.

The squad practices daily at the St. Xavier field house.

INTRAMURAL GAMES START TOMORROW

Medal and Miniature Basketballs for Trophies.

The intra-mural basketball tournament will start tomorrow afternoon when three games of the first round will be played. Mark Schmidt, director of the intra-mural leagues, announces that all the teams will be put into one elimination tournament, and that gold basketballs will be given to the members of the winning team, while sterling silver basketballs will be provided for the runners-up in the tournament.

The Junior class has offered a gold medal to be given to the man displaying the best sportsmanship in the incoming tournament. This is intended not only to better the sportsmanship in the respective games, but also to increase interest in intra-mural athletics.

The Mat Hall tournament has already reached the semi-final round, and according to present plans, will be completed over the coming week-end.

It has been rumored that over one hundred and eighty students have participated in the league games held this year, which is itself, is sufficient proof of the success of intra-mural athletics at St. Xavier. At present plans are being made for intra-mural basketball leagues and track meets to be organized in the spring.

STAFF MEETING

An important meeting of the staff of the News will be held in the Mat Hall tomorrow evening at 7:30. The next editor and business manager will be officially announced and will name their staff at this meeting.

"THE LOST ARTS" ARE DISCUSSED BY ALUMNI LECTURER

Dr. Wm. E. Henderson, of Ohio State, is speaker.

DR. PHILIPS NEXT SUNDAY.

"Nothing Done by Ancients That We Cannot Do."

The belittling of the present generation by its glorified ancestors, and ancestral worship is not entirely a lost art" contended Dr. William E. Henderson, former dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Ohio State University, in a lecture Sunday night on "The Lost Arts" under the St. Xavier Alumni association auspices at the Hotel Sinton.

The fourth lecture of the series will be given next Sunday evening by Dr. Charles Phillips of the Graduate School of Notre Dame University. His topic has been announced as "For the Pleasure of Their Company." It will take place at the Sinton at 8:30 p. m. This is the third time Dr. Phillips has appeared on the Alumni program.

Dr. Henderson, who is a noted chemist, spoke in part as follows: "There have been many who have believed that the present civilization has lost some of the scientific achievements of the ancients. It is not my purpose to belittle their attainments, but I will endeavor to show that they did nothing we cannot solve if we so desire."

Information from Philip. "Wendell Phillips in the thirties and forties delivered numerous lectures on the 'Lost Arts.' He obtained much of his information from Philip's history, and did not critically analyze such information. For example, he stated that when a watch maker wanted high-grade steel for watch-springs, he obtained it from the Punjab of India and not from the Sheffield factories. The column at Delhi, which is still standing in spite of evidence of the very pure iron of ancient times.

"The methods used in making iron at that time were favorable to a high grade product. The makers used hand-picked magnetite which in itself was free from phosphorus, silicon, and sulphur. The magnetite was treated with pure charcoal and all of the working was done by hand. This art was never lost but had to be abandoned as it did not meet the demand after gunpowder was introduced.

"Complete deoxidation was threatened in places, and Britain passed laws prohibiting the use of charcoal for this metallurgical purpose. The iron workers turned to coal which contains sulphur and other impurities. Centuries passed in learning how to make high grade steel in large quantities from cast iron. It was cheaper for London to obtain a few pounds of high grade steel from India for making watch springs, pinions, pivots, bearings, etc., than to induce Sheffield to produce a small lot of it, for its use were very limited.

Opportunity of Past. "The tribulation glass of the Romans is often spoken of as a glory of the past. Many poor glasses with the ends worked out by lamps and the sides deposited in liquid glass set as ruled gradings giving light from the soil that will show the same beautiful coloring.

"Tiffany's iridescent glass may not be as beautiful as some of these ancient glasses but it is of a much better quality. The Egyptians, before the Christian era, did crude glass making by winding hot glass rods on a wheel and melting the glass by tapping it with a hammer while in the plastic state. All of their glass vases and other vessels were opaque.

SONG CONTEST

Over $200 has been solicited to date for prize money in the contest for a new college song. Jack Downing announced Monday. He is being assisted by Joe McGinness. The money has been subscribed by members of the faculty, alumni and organizations.

Details of the contest have not been definitely settled, but it is likely that two contests, one for the lyrics and another for the music, will be held.

ATTITUDE TOWARD WORLD PEACE, TOPIC

Foreign Policy Since Versailles Is Manifestation.

Students writing in the Intercollegiate English Contest learned Friday that the general topic, "World Peace" was to be limited as follows: "The attitude of America toward World Peace as manifested by its foreign policy since the rejection of the Versailles treaty."

The contest will conclude April 3. Three papers from St. Xavier will be submitted to judges in St. Louis. Prize money amounting to $100 is annually donated by David Bremer, Sr., of Chicago. The contest is between Jesuit colleges.

It is planned at present to conduct weekly seminars for discussion of the topic.

CLEVELAND PAPER TO SPONSOR CONTEST

D. C. N. A. Silver Trophy to Go to Best in State.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer will sponsor the annual Ohio College Newspaper Association's contest for the best college paper in the state, Sherrill Leonard, executive secretary of the D. C. N. A., announced Monday. Six consecutive issues of each paper are to be submitted for competition.

The Plain Dealer has announced that a silver trophy will be given the winning sheet at the spring meeting of the organization May 11 and 12 at Wittenberg College, Springfield.

Three judges will select the best paper. The contest will begin shortly.

The Field House, located at Market Avenue and Winding Way, represents an investment of $325,000, and represents the last word in athletic building construction. It is built along Tudor Gothic style.

Owing to natural construction of the location the Field House has been built with one story in front and three stories on the rear facing Victory Boulevard. It fronts 300 feet on Winding Way and is 200 feet in depth. Its outer structure is built entirely of brick.

On the ground floor of the building are located the athletic director's office, the physician's and graduate manager's offices, the athletic council chamber and the varsity locker and

MOTTO — TO SERVE XAVIER

Finis—

The time has come for the present editor and business manager to write "Finis" to their work in connection with The News.

It was slightly over a year ago that we entered upon this work, and now, in retrospect, we know that we have passed thro' a pleasant, informative, and most demanding period. The task of preparing each issue is not an easy one, if the paper is to be a credit to the college. Our conservative policy has not pleased everyone, our handling of various activities has had a few critics. But we expected that when we accepted our commission. In fact, the paper has not fully satisfied ourselves; no paper can suit its publishers, due to the limitations of time, news, talent, etc.

Nevertheless the approval of a large majority of the student body has been won and we hand over the paper with a certain amount of complacency. Our successors, men of promise, will be officially announced at the staff meeting tomorrow evening. We venture to suggest to them that their staff should be limited as experience has taught us that a large staff is not feasible. Six, or at the most eight, men should suffice to publish The News.

We are happy to report that the page length of the paper has been materially increased during our year-in-office, its financial status is secure, and its production has been greatly speeded up. Several new features have been added and an average percentage of advertising maintained.

If it is not presumptuous, we should like to thank the president, Rev. Hubert F. Brockman, S. J., the heads of the various colleges and departments, Revs. Daniel M. O'Connell, S. J., Alphonse Fisher, S. J., and George Kister, S. J., and our moderator, Rev. John J. Sullivan, S. J., for their co-operation. The members of the staff who contributed faithfully to each issue, E. Wirt Russell, Wm. M. Cline, Richard Downing, Frank Glusck, John McAnaw, Albert Warst, and George E. Winter, also are to be thanked. Lastly, the gentlemen with whom we were associated in the mechanical preparation of each issue have lent us every aid and we are their debtors.

Like travelers who have passed thru a difficult but wondrous country, rich in an abundance of knowledge and experience, we have reached our journey's end, glad to rest.

Ellet Hall Notes

Vic Staudt, the basest bass in the school, held out on the Ellet Minstrel Show, evidently because he was not offered enough to invest in a tux tie. The show, by the way, was a great success, and we offer our congratulations to the producers, "Al Fields" Specht and "Al Johnson" Burns. But why did he say "Don't fail to vote this show"?

And Ches now has a new squawk. That ringle! Ches claims that he was presented with a dishwasher stove, and we are inclined to believe him. However, it has now reached the stage where we don't know when to take Ches seriously, so let's hope that he will give us fair warning when he intends to say something that we should pay heed to.

Red Kasley and Bob McGlyvern seem to have acquired plenty of school spirit in the short time that they have been with us. They left Cincinnati last week and to see the Musketeers play in Chicago and if Bob hadn't fallen asleep in Indianapolis, Red swears they would have seen the game. We suggest that you put little Robbie in training for the next escapade, Red, and maybe you'll get there.

It has been said that all fat men are jolly and we are now convinced of this theory, as forcefully exemplified in the dispositions of the Ha-Ha Boys. If you are not acquainted with these youths, then step up and meet "Suncoth One" Tanager and "Bottlecrush" Barnum, who seem to be continually laughing at each other, for which you can't blame them.

The freshmen surely are an agreeable outfit. Or else they might be a little high-nosed. This idea of forcing rules upon themselves is great stuff, and since they are so anxious for rules, we suggest that the upper classes impose a few more on them, which might not occur to the Fresh.

We know of one boy in the Hall, who should profit by the season of penance. That is old Tom Kelley, of Cleveland, the celery king. Mark Bokaniet says that he has too much on hand since Mel swears off.

ELF FIRES

By Will O' the Whip

It is not very often that a columnist enjoys the luxury of a vacation, at the same time drawing full remuneration, but this week such is my luck. I had intended to write of the possibilities in tonight's game until I picked up last Saturday's copy of The University News from the University of Cincinnati.

What I read there over the signature of the president of U. C.'s Student Council is worthy of reprinting and, with these introductory paragraphs, my work is completed.

Everything in this editorial, with a slight turning around, applies equally to St. Xavier and her students:

When We Are Guests

Saint Xavier College has indeed honored the University of Cincinnati in so graciously extending us an invitation to bring our champion Musketeers to take part in the dedication of their new Field House next Wednesday night. We are happy that it was possible to accept the invitation from the Cincinnati institution.

We have been deeply honored in that Dr. Frank W. Chandler, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts here, has been invited and has accepted the invitation to make an address as representing the University of Cincinnati at the dedication exercises which will take place between the halves of the Musketeer-Bearcat til.

St. Xavier College, from its administrative heads and its athletic officials, have been more than courteous toward the University of Cincinnati. We look forward to the affair with a great deal of pleasure because we feel that the invitation to take part in the dedication represents a spirit of friendship between the two institutions.

We are confident that between the two institutions this spirit of friendship will prevail on the night of March 3 next. We are confident that the teams of the two Cincinnati institutions will give a fine exhibition of good, clean, sportsmanlike play in the final basketball game of the current season.

But basketball is a team game, especially if the score progresses rather evenly. If such would be the case, the students of the University of Cincinnati would do well to remember that Old

Middletown has a reasonably good reputation for being "good sports." The rivalry, of course, even though the two institutions do not meet regularly in athletic contests and even though the prospect for regularly scheduled games is absent now, is exceptionally keen because of the fact that the two institutions happen to be situated in the same municipality.

We must remember that we are the guests of St. Xavier for the evening and that the city of Cincinnati will judge our qualities of sportsmanship largely according to the standards we display at this game. Every student at the University desires that the University be well thought of. The great majority of our students are good sports. We make this assertion with all confidence because they have proved the fact to be true many times.

But, even as any institution does, we have a few—a handful—of students and rooters who, at times, become over-anxious in cheering processes and modes. We would ask that great majority of more sportsmanlike students to maintain their good reputations as real sportsmen by using their influence and set such examples so that nothing but clean sportsmanship will appear at the dedication game. We are confident, however, that there will be nothing which will mar the open gesture of friendship and good feeling between the two institutions which is being displayed by the gracious invitation which has been extended by the St. Xavier officials and has been accepted so happily by the University of Cincinnati.

An imposing number of college presidents and officials from Ohio and neighboring states have been invited to be present at the dedication game and a large number of them men will be present. Many of them will form opinions of the student bodies of the two institutions at the game. In this respect the students of the University of Cincinnati are "on inspection." If our students refrain from being carried away with too keen a feeling of rivalry and remember that good sportsmanship is one of the most admirable qualities that can be found among college groups, the good reputation of the University of Cincinnati will most certainly be safeguarded.

Undoubtedly, there will be spectators present who will become over-enthusiastic for one team or the other. We refer to those fans who attend neither of the institutions. Our students would do well to refrain from bringing about any heated controversies with these sport fans.

On the whole, however, we look forward with a great deal of pleasure to the game. We are more than glad that Old Middletown has been so honored as to have the opportunity of taking an active part in the dedication of the new Field House. The students of the University will be the guests of St. Xavier College that night. If any of our students feel inclined to conduct themselves in any manner other than proper guests, we would suggest that these students forget to come.

TRIBUTE PAID XAVIER

During the past few months The Cincinnati Enquirer has been publishing a special series of editorials, under the title "Come to Cincinnati", in which the commercial, industrial, financial, cultural and similar advantages of the city are listed.

Last Sunday when the educational facilities of Cincinnati were pointed out, St. Xavier was paid the following tribute:

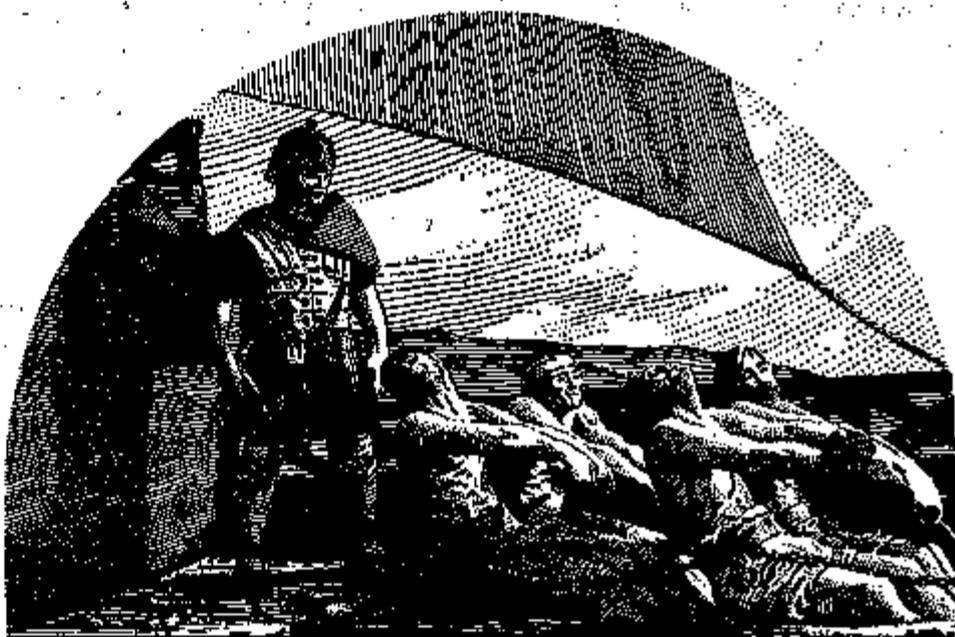

"Another fine Cincinnati seat of learning, with a splendid general curriculum, with a splendid group of instructors, is St. Xavier College. St. Xavier is one of the strongest Catholic colleges in the West. Its various departments are conducted along most modern lines, and it is an integral unit in the cultural life of the city. St. Xavier also offers valuable special night courses."

WE'VE sketched here the Clinton — "best-seller" in our stores at six leading universities. Its price is decidedly lower than its perfect styling and workmanship would suggest.

NOON LEAGUE IS STAGING GAMES TO FIND CHAMPS

Koch, Mercurio, Sack and Corbett Star.

By James Griffin

The Noon League Basketball champions of each class, except the Seniors, were decided on the first two days of last week.

IC defeated IO, 13 to 10, to win the championship in the First Year League. 2E defeated 2D thus capturing the Second Year laurels.

3A was not compelled to play, to decide the Junior race, having lost but one encounter during the entire season.

Third A Defeats Two E

Third A won the right to play the winner of the 4A-4C contest for the school championship when, with the aid of Mercurio and Corbett, they defeated 2E in a fast, clean game.

4A will be without Wising in their contest because present illness will probably keep him home another week.

In our next issue we will announce the mythical All-Stars of the Noon League as chosen by James Griffin, Noon League editor, and John Nolan, Basketball Manager.

DEBATE SET FOR MONDAY

This coming Monday evening the Debating Society will present another program of debates. The subject of the first debate will be "Resolved: that the present jury system should be abolished."

The subject of the other debate has not been announced.

JUNIORS COMPLETE SUCCESSFUL TERM OF BASKETBALL

Fifty Per Cent of Contests Are Victories.

By Francis Macaron

That second team, the Juniors, has just completed another successful season: not so much in point of games won and lost as in good, clean, wholesome sport, diversion and training.

The Juniors of this year were not quite the polished crowd that the Juniors of last year were. This is due, of course, to the fact that they had no coach.

It does not seem the school takes the interest it should in the Juniors. True, the High School team does, and should, occupy the limelight, but do not the Juniors deserve a word of praise or encouragement now and then?

Fight For Xavier

They are fighting for the added glory and reputation of Xavier as well as the big team. Encouragement would certainly stir them to better efforts when they reach the big team later, at twenty or so.

But however little the Juniors may be appreciated by the student-body in general, the News takes this opportunity to glorify the names of each and every one of the players: Kearney, Korman, Stadler, Byrnes, Moran, Quill Shales and Ryan. We congratulate them—good basketball players and good sports, and good examples of the kind of school spirit St. X craves.

 her and York, witnessed the highest stage in the art of stained glass. This glass was made locally and often several centuries were required in its making. The makers could not duplicate any two batches. Small quantities were obtained and these were mottled, streaky, wavy and of varying thickness.
 "A great artist assembled these quantities, poked over them, and worked out the modulations and designs for the various windows. A lifetime was required for such assembling. In that age the window openings were high and rather narrow and the rooms dark, all of which added the sparkling brilliancy of the glass windows. The windows of today are lower and wider and we are obliged to use softer colors. What we have lost is the genius that works great designs and spends a lifetime in assembling them.

Effort is the only means of spiritual success. We must make the effort to control the passions and the emotions that are in us, if we are to make our spiritual life successful."
