THE NEWS' PROGRAM

FOR A GREATER ST. XAVIER

A Greater and Stronger Alumni Association.

Better Inter-departmental Co-operation.

An All-College Newspaper.

Our Parting Words

The NEWS joins in congratulating the Senior Class. The record of the Class of '29 shows a successful participation in all that the College has offered during the past four years. The victories of its individual members in all activities has given it undisputed claim to being among Xavier's representative classes. To be deemed worthy of the "sheep-skin" is in itself an impressive fact to the undergraduates who see that far-off goal beyond the barrier of hard work and worry.

The men of '29 will find further expression for their spirit and devotion, as members of the Alumni association. Adherence to that organization will do much to preserve those friendships and acquaintances with fellow-classesmen who are all worthy to remain friends throughout life. It will also be a means to maintaining a closer contact with the activities of the College in the years that are to follow. If every "grad" gave that co-operation to College functions that his time and opportunities allowed, all obstacles to progress would be at once removed. To drop the altruistic frame of mind for a moment—the NEWS would be greatly aided by an expanded circulation among the members of the alumni. The younger members, especially, many of whom have been actively connected with the NEWS, must realize the earnest but futile effort the NEWS makes every year to reach this large field of prospective readers. Certainly there can be no better medium for getting a view of the activities and problems of the College than from those who are in close contact with them.

One thought remains uppermost. The Class of '29 has functioned well in its undergraduate days. May it perpetuate that fraternal co-operation by always remembering Xavier and Xavier men. Time can dim the lustre of '29's achievements, but time can also strengthen the spirit that gave birth to them.

A Greater News in September

The next issue of the Xavierian News will appear about the middle of September. In the meantime, the members of the staff will have an opportunity to consider what mistakes they have made and to plan a better and more interesting journal for next year. Relieved from the pressure of publication and standing at a distance, they will see new angles of situations which were obscured by their very proximity.

The enlarged policy of the News will be the goal of next year's efforts. Improvement in make-up and content will continue to be worked for, just as former staffs have built upon the efforts of their predecessors. A third ambition is taking root—to increase the number of NEWS readers among the student-body. That there has been neglect (on the part of the student-body) in this regard has been shown in more than one instance in the past. It is important that the student-publication reach all the students every week. No effort will be spared on the part of the NEWS to "come half way."

Non-staff contributions are again solicited for next year's paper. Since the establishment of a course in Journalism, the NEWS has taken on a valuable significance as a laboratory for the members of the Journalism classes. Several men will be added to the staff in September. This should be of special interest to the members of the Freshman Class.

We have confidence in our plans, and, above all, conditions as we see them in 1929-30, will be favorable to them. We bid adieu to our faithful readers for a short three months, and promise them unflagging effort in behalf of the News' program for a greater St. Xavier.

BEIRNE ADJUDGED LOSER

Bob Beirne, Liberal Arts senior, was awarded the decision of the Literati who served as judges in the News essay contest announced last week. In plain words, Beirne in the opinion of the judges merited the distinction of losing the $500. With permission of the copyright owners we reprint the losing essay:

WHAT COLLEGE HAS GOT OUT OF ME $12.57

The choice was made by taking into consideration neatness, conciseness, brevity, euphony, clarity, construction and terseness. All those objecting to the decision will please remain standing in the rear of the room.

Now we was esthetic and disinterested upon a subject that hitherto has not been broached in this department, and one which we feel sure will strike a responsive chord in even the most sensitive of readers.

We heard it said somewhere that Music Hath Charms and in the interest of science we set out either to prove or to disprove the allegation. We ended by proving it to the satisfaction of all concerned. Here is the indisputable evidence:

One day we were riding to town on a crowded street car when of a sudden a brass band struck up the martial strains of our national Anst Hymn. Immediately a white haired old lady with a bluish child in her arms grasped her crutches, got up, and leaped us her seat. That in itself is no uncommon occurrence, but the remarkable part of the episode is that previous to the music she had remained seated, impervious to the fact that we had been reading a book and were tired. Too, when the last note of the air had died away on the breeze she obviously repented of the kindly feeling and sought to recover the seat by glaring us in an intimidating manner. She even tried to tell us where to get off, but to no avail, for we rode two blocks further where the conductor concurred with her in her opinion.

Another instance which will illustrate the power of music is the following:

Not long ago we were seated in the A-lace in the ballroom row when a dazzling queen stalked out upon the stage. She looked at us without any visible palpitation of the heart. Then the music started, commenced or began. Believe it or no, but this time on finding us she burst into song, singing "My Man." We have every reason to suppose that had not the music started she would never have had the courage—others have not.

Yet a third substantiation: Once we were standing on the edge of a sticky floor talking to a shy, demure girl. (No music going). An orchestra whose members were disguised as psychopathic patients commenced to play. Strange as it may seem, that girl was

SENIORS GIVE LAMPS

Gift of the class of 1929 of the College of Liberal Arts to St. Xavier College will be two bronze lamp posts. The senior committee in charge of the selection of the posts is E. Wirt Russell and Anthony T. Deidens. The lamps will be erected before the main entrance to Alumni Hall.

Rev. Hubert F. Brockman, S. J., President of St. Xavier College, is on a business trip East. During his absence he will visit Rochester, Buffalo, Toronto, Detroit, and Cleveland. He will serve as an examiner for the Catholic Educational Association at an inspection of Marquette College, Rochester, N. Y.

Following the lead of several other institutions of higher learning, Oberlin has abolished her letter grading system, and now the only marks given are "Pass" or "Fail."

Students at North Carolina State, must pay fifty cents for each class they eat.

So carried away that she grabbed me about the neck and dragged us about upon that sick floor. Dear reader, can you beat that, and can you deny that she would never have done such things had there been no music?

And then some admirer of Orpheus called us a damned lye. When we spoke good-bye till next September with the parting injunction to wait till then to buy thermometers, for it is rumored that they are sometimes higher in the summer time.

ROGER BACON CRUSHED

X AVENGES EARLY DEFEAT

STEINKAMP GETS 2 HOMERS

By Don Dixon

In an important Greater Cincinnati League Contest at Deer Creek, Tuesday afternoon, St. Xavier Blue Sox overcame Roger Bacon Spartans, 18-4. The big bats wielded by the downtown team proved the undoing of the Spartans, a total of 17 being registered by Coach Savage's men. Xavier had two hit rounds, tallying 6 times in the third frame and adding 7 more in the sixth. Captain Steinkamp led his sluggers at the plate, connecting for 6 hits out of 8 attempts, two of which were lordly home runs.

Beinische and Joseph each got 2 out of 4. "Little Joe" furnished the fielding feature by handling several hot chances at second and Higley Critz. Beinische held the Bacon hitters in check at every stage, only 6 hits being chalked off his delivery.

TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT

ALL ARRANGEMENTS MADE JUNIORS, SENIORS TO FEAST

By John Brink

The stage is all set for the Junior Senior Banquet. Kevin De Bra, chairman, has been elected toastmaster by the committee. The menu which was submitted by the officials of the Cincinnati Club, was decided upon and everyone may rest assured that they will certainly get a fine dinner for their money. Several speakers will augment the banquet with their timely or witty remarks. The Junior and Senior classes had a great deal of fun last week writing parodies on modern songs to be sung at the banquet. This song affair was one of the highly successful points of last year's banquet and so it will be incorporated in the program this evening. Another feature of the banquet will be the sponsored program which the committee is having printed for the convenience of those present. It will be noticed that the main line on the front page of this program, will be arranged in such a way as to give it climax. (Look that one up in your Tanager.) Any Junior or Senior who misses this affair, will certainly regret it later on so remember to be at the Cincinnati Club tonight at 8:30 sharp.

FRESHMEN

PRESENT COMIC PLAY FOR 8TH GRADE PUPILS

On last Friday, May 24, the Freshmen, under the direction of Mr. Edward C. Roth, presented a two-act farce, entitled "Winning An Heiress." The play was given for pupils in the 8th grade of various Parochial schools throughout the city. The play dealt mainly with the efforts of three young men to attract the attention of an heiress. The heiress in the end turns out to be one of their gentleman friends, John Reilly. Charles McDowell, and Edward Harper take the parts of Ben Barrow, Henry Hardup, and Sam Slow, respectively. They are the amorous young men who are to anxiously stand in with the heiress. Richard Woods and George Dolkenmayer are Andrew Astor and Ned Nally in the first act, while in the second they are disguised as the heiress' aunt, and the heiress herself. Robert Adams is a highly excitable and extremely vicious fellow named Israel Cohen. Leo Nutini, in reality the janitor, furnishes many laughs in the role of Jimmy Crippie, when he tries to appear as highly respectable and polished butler.

Besides the play itself there were several other features. John O'Hara gave a speech of welcome. Anthony Michel recited that humorous education piece, "Betsy At The Baseball Game." Another humorous recitation, "Mr. Brown Gets A Heiress," was given by Joseph Rathemeyer. The band and the orchestra were both on hand with several rousing selections.

A CORRECTION

In last week's issue of the Xavierian News, it was stated on this page that the High School Commencement Exercises would be held on June 14, 1928. This was an error. The St. Xavier High School Commencement Exercises will be held in the New Field House, at Corcoran Field, on Wednesday June 12, 1928, not Friday, June 14.

SENIOR SODALITY CLOSSES

On Monday, May 29, The Senior Sodality held their last meeting of the year. Fr. Lilly, Moderator, gave a short farewell talk. He told the Sodality to always have great devotion to the Blessed Virgin for it is to her whom we must turn in later years. He said that it was a pious custom to always carry a rosary. He reminded the members of their pledge to say one decade of the Rosary every day during the month of May in honor of the Blessed Virgin; that they should renew their intention if they had broken it, and persevere in it if not. He also mentioned that Fr. Morgan, S. J., of St. Xavier College, was going to Chicago this summer with a group of College men, to attend the Students' Spiritual Council Convention. If any high school student wished to attend, he may accompany the St. Xavier delegation with Fr. Morgan. All who intend to go should give their names to Jack Conway, Prefect of St. Sodality, and he will inform them of the particulars of the trip, such as rates, expenses, dates, etc. Prayers and a hymn to the Blessed Virgin closed the meeting.

GOLF TEAM

The X High Golf team which is a new organization at St. X. this year, has been showing up very well in all its matches so far. They played a tight match with the powerful Western Hills team and came out with a 6 to 6 tie. They were to play a game with Elder High but it was called off at the last moment. Their next feat was a victory over the representative team of Covington High school. They took this match without any difficulty at all by a score of 12 to 0. They are to play this team once more before the season is over. This is a remarkable showing for a team in its first year, to put up a good fight and even beat teams that have several seasons experience behind them. Let us hope that this movement will not die out with the passing of the present school year, but that the members of the present team will take it upon themselves to arouse interest again next year, and build up a stronger and better team even than we now have.

ELDER GAME ALL WET

Last Friday, May 24, St. Xavier was supposed to play Elder High in a baseball game at Price Hill. The afternoon draped dark and threatening. But it was just uncertain enough to persuade about 10 St. X. troopers to make the trip. way up on that plateau, known as Price Hill, (elevation above Fountain Square, approximately 100 feet). Both teams wasted some good time practicing, and just as soon as the game started, it began to sprinkle lightly. Elder was first at bat, and it could easily be seen that they were desperate. They swung their bats violently, but most of the time they were hitting hot liners into Steinkamp's catcher's mitt. They might have even scored some runs, if they hadn't made three outs before their men could get around the bases. As soon as it was Xavier's turn to bat, it began to rain so hard that both teams took refuge in the sheltered grandstand. No sooner were they firmly ensconced in the grandstand, than it stopped raining. So out they piled again to resume hostilities. Our team was allowed to make their three outs, and Elder had no more than come up to bat again, when a terrific downpour, chased the teams away. Thus was ruined what promised to be an exciting ballgame. It will be played off this coming Monday, June 3, at Elder High School.

SCHOLARSHIP CONTEST

The 8th grade scholarship contest which is a yearly occurrence at St. Xavier High School, was held at the school on Saturday, May 18. Four scholarships are awarded every year. The basis of awarding them is an examination which any pupil in the 8th grade of any parochial school is allowed to take. The result of this year's contests are: Four-year Scholarship—Fred Berchert, of Sacred Heart Parochial School, Camp Washington. Three-year Scholarship—Robert Infield, of St. Patrick's Parochial School, Covington, Ky. Two-year Scholarship—Charles Bernier, of St. Peter and Paul Parochial School, Reading, Ohio. A large host of undergraduates viewed an illustrated lecture on the life of Pope Pius XI given by Dr. Paul J. Menge, professor of German, at room 106 Friday. All interested in the trip should confer with Dr. Menge.

By WILLIAM J. WISE

Since the silver screen has waxed eloquent in a photographic way, we poor mortals of the consuming public have been plagued with movies representative of: the gay nineties, when villains wore flowing mustaches and hip boots, and heroines invariably swooned into the arms of the hero in the final act. Drama of this period recalls the pioneer efforts of the movie producers, which depicted whooping cowboys on smoking steeds reeling alongside a roaring locomotive.

Sometimes these hardy westerners were grim in their determination to rob, while on other occasions they strove with all their might and main to prevent an imminent train wreck. Then there were also tense court room scenes, intended to evoke streams of fresh salty tears from the nostrils. As time moved on, the movies, like all other industries, progressed and developed into a gigantic business enterprise with no meager social potentiality. This progression continued to such a point that occasionally an isolated movie of thoroughly good quality was suddenly presented to the great American public. After being immaculated for so long with corroding celluloid projections, audiences eyed in utter astonishment at a picture which did not lend itself to the conventional formula. Enlightenment gave way to perplexity which in turn resulted in a swiveling distaste.

"Talkies"
Within the past year the "talkies" have taken the country by storm, much after the fashion of pacifism. By attaching an apparatus, similar to the old-fashioned gramophone, which reproduces sound just about as successfully, the movie magnates have carved for themselves a niche in the hearts of most habitual movie fans.

There are, however, several weighty reasons why talking pictures are a decided retrogression rather than a progression. First and foremost, it is recalled with funeral sadness that in the good old days it was quite possible, even pleasant to drift off into the narrative regions of slumber, if the show did not particularly appeal to the individual. In addition to that, the accompanying music made the task all the easier, and often acted as a sedative for tired nerves.

As matters now stand, the poorly enunciated dialogue of the talking pictures prevent this restful repose, and actually drives spectators from the theater with that irritated feeling which follows upon a persistently harsh grating sound. Gone are the days when Xavierians could slumber into the cinema palaces, taking advantage of the afternoon rates, see the show through once, and then placidly regain the sleep which they lost in the morning classes.

Silence Best
Optimists are insistent in reiterating the disparaging epithet that "every cloud has a silver lining", at any rate there is a refreshing solution to the present difficulty. Incidentally the solution is economical as well. Instead of patronizing the Capitol, it is infinitely more enjoyable to frequent Cincinnati's foremost ten-cent theater, situated on Vine street between Fifth and Sixth. It has that greatest of all qualities (at least where movies are concerned) namely, silence. It has been suggested that Xavier students join together into a mystical society which has for its avowed purpose an active hostility and resentment towards talking pictures.

SHUT-OUT

Hurled By Ambrose Putman Over Centre College; Each Team Registers Five Hits; Game Closes Home Season.

Playing their best game of the year the St. Xavier College baseball team won over Centre College by a 3 to 0 count at Deey Creek Commons grounds last Saturday. The game completed the St. Xavier home sport program for this year.

Both pitchers were in rare form. Ambrose Putman hurled the Musketiers in the first shut-out win by St. Xavier in two seasons of play. Chas Shearer, football star, did the pitching for Centre.

Each pitcher allowed five safe hits. Putman was the more reliable in the pinches. The game marked the return to form of the St. Xavier catcher, who showed promise in the early season.

St. Xavier's first run came in the sixth inning when Bill Collins singled, went to second on Wilke's walk and scored on Captain Droegge's single to center.

The second resulted from Bob Kenley's double to left field in the eighth inning, followed by several infield outs and then scored on Rander's second hit of the day to center.

Putman was rarely in trouble and had things his own way throughout. Hitting of Captain Rander and upfield play of Kenay Schaefer sparked for the Musketiers.

The final game on the Musketiers' schedule will be played at the University of Dayton grounds June 14.
