Xavier Activities To Show On Stage

At Albee Theater Tonight; Band, Clef Club And Athletic Leaders To Appear

Two young people received a thrill Monday night when Hal McPhail, Xavier doughty football captain, dropped back stage at the Albee Theater to see dainty Armida, Spain's dance star, about "Xavier Night", which will be Thursday (tonight) at the Albee. Of course, all they talked about was the "program" of the evening when the songs of Xavier and the cheers of the Xavier students will ring out in the theater, but nevertheless, both Armida and Hal enjoyed themselves.

Hal McPhail

Armida is a rabid football fan, you see, and as for Hal, you should see Armida!

The "Xavier Night" festivities will include the appearance of McPhail and Head Coach Joe Meyer on the Albee stage. Both will say a few words and since both are thinking about nothing so much these days as that Haskell Turkey Day Game, we wouldn't be surprised if that was mentioned.

Also, the Xavier band, forty pieces strong, will be there for a short concert of college compositions which should get the Albee audience into the spirit of the thing, if we know George T. Bird's Xavier Band!

Cliff Boyd, manager of the Albee, has announced that the official time of the Xavier Night festivities will be 9:15 P. M., Thursday night, at which time, the glamorous Armida and her fellow entertainers make their last appearance of the day's performance of Fanchon and Marco's stage show, "The Mulhru Beach" Idea.

Appropriately enough, the Albee screen attraction this week is "The All American", college football story starring Richard Arion and presenting the

PEP RALLY IN TOWN IS "ROARING SUCCESS"

On the eve of the Homecoming game, the freshmen, sophomores, and a few upper classmen, assembled in the downtown section of this city for their annual rally. This rally was conducted under the careful vigilance of the Sophomore class. A great deal of pep and spirit was displayed by the Freshmen, and it was quite audible that this group of boys was in town. A parade, starting from Fountain Square and taking in the main theatres and hotels, was concluded after a merry time had been had by all.

DEAN ADMONISHES ORIENTATION CLASS

The Freshmen Orientation Class was addressed by the Dean, Fr. Carrigan, last Tuesday morning. A letter received from the R. K. O. theatres was the main topic of the address. This letter admonished the students, mostly freshmen, who took part in the pep rally downtown last Friday evening. It went on to say that our students acted as rowdies instead of Xavier gentlemen. The writer expressed that altho a non-Catholic, he sent his children to a Catholic school, and therefore was quite amazed at the way these Catholic boys acted. He claimed these actions would reflect on the unblemished record of Xavier.

A few brief announcements of lesser importance brought this weekly class to a close.

Congratulations are in order for the successful candidates and especially for Thomas M. Geoghegan, '02, County Commissioner-elect; Lawrence A. Kane, '28, State Representative-elect; Dr. M. Scott Kearns, '23, Coroner-elect; and Peter J. McCarthy, Clerk of Courts-elect, who has two sons among the Xavier alumni.

entire 1931 All-American football team, the All-American Board and several famous coaches. Such names as Carideo, Orsi, Schwieger, Nevers, Booth, Cagle, Munn, Schwartz, and Dalrymple are to be found in the cast and are shown in actual scenes of football, when the climax of the picture is reached in the game between the All-American Team of 1931 and the Eastern All-Stars.

VERKAMP DEBATE

Names of entrants to the annual Verkamp Debate Contest will be accepted by Father Manning until next Monday, November 21. Preliminaries will take place on the following Monday, November 28. Speakers will be required to deliver a speech on the following topic, taking either the affirmative or the negative standpoint: Resolved, That the United States, in conjunction with the other allied powers, should cancel inter-allied war debts. Those who survive the preliminaries will speak in the Verkamp Debate itself, in competition for the gold medal which is awarded annually to the best debater. Participation in the finals of the Verkamp Debate is a condition for membership on the debating team. The contest is sponsored by the Poland Philopedian Debating Society.

REDSKINS

To Play Turkey Day Classic

Even Chance To End Season With Victory

By Maurice Richmond

The Musketeers will enjoy a rest this week in preparation for their annual battle with the Haskell Indians on Thanksgiving.

The Xavierites have been scrimmaging daily against the Freshmen and by the time the Redskins come to town the Musketeers should be in good shape.

Coach Loné Star Dietz of the Indians has uncovered another star in the person of R. Holmes, versatile half-back who, last week, romped 95 yards through the entire St. Louis U. team to score the only marker for the Haskell.

The game Thanksgiving will be the final game for such stalwart Musketeers as Captain McPhail, Moellerling, Hosty, Luebbers, and Steinkamp. All of these men are expected to see plenty of action and Musketeer followers expect much from them.

The Indians use a variety of forward and lateral passes starting from a peculiar formation and a tricky shift which is intended to draw opponents offside.

Musketeer pivot men will have plenty to cope with in the person of Captain Crowe, center on the Indian squad. The tackles and ends on the Redskin team are very good and unless the Musketeer blocking shows improvement they will have a hard time going around ends.

Last year the Musketeers surprised all the experts by trouncing the Indians 12 to 6 and this year they hope to turn the trick again.

Captain McPhail is expected to return to action against the Indians and if he plays the same bang up game he played against them last year the Redskins should be on the short end of the score.

The Haskell game will close the season for the Musketeers and unless the unexpected happens the Xavierites should end the season in a blaze of glory by scalping the Redskins.

Tech Victorious After Hard Fight

Musketeers Fight Hard Against Carnegie Outfit; Wiethe, Wilging, Sander Star

By Paul Barrett

Consistently staving off an aggravated Carnegie offense, the Musketeers went down to a glorious 15-0 defeat before a disappointing Homecoming crowd of 4,500 rabid fans. In the defensive department Xavier cut loose with a stellar performance and limited the Skibos to two touchdowns and a safety. However Xavier could do nothing offensively against the powerful and experienced Carnegie forward wall which was the weightiest they have encountered this season. Carnegie unreeled a deceptive aerial attack and a steady pass defense which greatly aided in the downfall of the Musketeers. Xavier appeared weak in this one respect and Carnegie took advantage of the fact.

First Half

The first period was a nip and tuck affair with neither team having a decided edge. Carnegie was puzzled by several of Xavier's shifts and counts and was frequently drawn offside. The number of penalties inflicted on both sides slowed down the action. However in the second quarter things began popping. Hal Pennington, who was playing his usual bang-up defensive game at full, was removed from the game as a result of a broken nose. A few plays after his removal, Tom Brannen, attempting to punt, was rushed and the kick was blocked. Tom fell on the ball behind the goal line for a safety. The quarter was speedily drawn to a close when a perfectly executed pass gave Carnegie another score. Stewart out the uprights with a placement kick for the extra point.

The Old Fight

Xavier entered the third period with a do-or-die spirit but there was no stopping the fresh Skibos. After an intercepted pass placed the ball in Carnegie's possession on the 35 yard line, a sustained drive netted the score with Coulter crossing the line on a one yard buck. Joe Luebbers, who was in the thick of the battle all afternoon, knocked down Stewart's attempt for the point. From this point to the final gun the fiercely fighting Musketeers repulsed the Scots but their inability to complete passes kept our boys from scoring.

Three times during the course of the game Xavier threatened the Scot's goal line but each time Carnegie, back on its haunches, halted the march. The score was a great surprise to the Carnegie backers who expected their boys to participate in a track meet. The right side of Xavor's line, composed of 'Sock' Wiethe, 'Col' Wilging, and 'Woody' Sander, did much to frustrate many of Carnegie's scoring attempts. Hal Pennington and Tom Schmidt both left the game due to injuries and their loss greatly hindered Xavier's chances.

The score:

Xavier	Pos.	Carnegie
Schmidt	L. E.	Stewart
Moellerling	L. T.	Croft
Coleman	L. G.	(C) Sample
Steinkamp	C.	Jones
Wiethe	R. G.	Burzio
Wilging	R. T.	Plummer
Sander	R. E.	Ostrosky
Brannen (C.)	Q. B.	Dueger
Jordan	L. H.	Spisak
Elder	R. H.	(C) Kavel
Pennington	F. B.	Milim

Touchdowns—Spisak, Coulter. Point after touchdown—Stewart. Safety—Brannen. Substitutions: Xavier: McCrea, Wulle, Hosty, Luebbers, Profumo, Corbett, Kennedy; Carnegie:—Dueger, Heinzer, McCurdy, O'Toole, Sayles, Doloway, Nutler, Coulter, Burns Croissant, Doloway. Officials—L. S. McPhail, (Mich.), referee; Dan B. Dougherty (W. & J.), Umpire; Dr. E. P. Maxwell, (Ohio State), Head Linesman; Earl Cavanaugh, (Pittsburgh), Field Judge.

COMMERCE DANCE MONDAY

George A. Rehtin, president of the Co-operators is handling all arrangements. The dance will follow the regular class sessions.

OBSERVATIONS

At Carnegie Tech Game Set Down In Humorous Vein By Feature Reporter

By Cliff Lange

Cold weather sure fixed up the gate receipts at the Skibo game... Coach Joe Meyer should have sent some Xavier students over to talk to the business manager of the Carnegie aggregation—they could have chiseled off a good bit of the $7,000 that was coming to Smoky City men... Figure it out for yourself: 4,500 times $1.50 equals...? They owe us money... Besides Wash & Jeff looked better than they did...

What did the announcer say at the beginning of the game?... Xavier chose to defend the North Goal or the North Pole... Did you hear that dirty face newsboy say "Buy your papers here... read 'em and sit on 'em."

Mayor Druffel's short talk was, according to another spectator at the game, very good because "he didn't talk long and shut up in a hurry"... What is that man always saying in that telephone down along the lines during the game?... shush Hubert he is giving the opposing team's signals away.

Old Eagle Eye the Bull was determined that no one was going to "hook" in the game by jumping out the dorm window... while he wasn't looking three "hooked" in... he felt all flustered when he caught one urchin in the grand finale of hanging from a window with the intention of seeing the Skibos play for nothing—I, e. he wanted to see the Skibos for nothing... by the way who is the other sleuth who is always prowling about with a curve-stem pipe in his mouth?

Good ole grads they sure did take to their coffee at the half... the kind of coffee that keeps your radiator from boiling over... who was the girl in the grey ensemble (pronounced Angsang-bi) with the immense chrysanthemum pinned on the front of her coat... if it was a chrysanthemum (spelt correct—twice) it was a dahlia—that is if dahlias can be yellow.

There was an idea for you... SEAT PADS... why doesn't that man come around school during class hours... why didn't they announce the U. C. Ohio U score during the game... there were many U. C. Students (we call Xavier men students why not U. C. Students) who wanted to hear the results of the game. There is something to that business of freezing them at the game and then having them thaw out at the Homecoming Dance... sure you dopes didn't you ever hear of that Anti-Freeze mixture (for machines).

Bring your feathers and practice your war whoop... THE INDIANS ARE COMING... by the way what significance is there to that rumor about this being the last season for the HINDIANS... HEY RICHMOND AND BARRETT!

Workers Wanted—

Now that the principal members of the Musketeer staff have been appointed, the question arises, or should arise, what sort of annual is Xavier University going to produce this year? The answer to the question, many will say, lies solely in the hands of the Editor and the Business Manager. This conclusion, like all other half-truths, is not only inconclusive but dangerous.

For a little deeper consideration will reveal that the positions above mentioned carry with them more responsibility for organizing than for producing. In other words, the Business Manager is not expected to handle all the advertising and financial problems personally, and the Editor cannot be expected to write the book. It is the job of these men to see that the ordinary members of the staff do their respective jobs well enough that the net result will be a specimen of unified and well-executed publication work.

From this it follows that the annual will be as good as its staff is capable and industrious.

So the "News" is sending out a plea. We are asking the student body to take the "Musketeer" to heart. We ask each man to consider for himself if he has any ability, literary or business, which he can spare for a little work on this important publication. If he decides that he has, we ask him to report to the Editor or Business Manager, who will give him a fair trial.

If he succeeds, and has a bit of his writing or an advertisement he has solicited accepted, his work will be made permanent between the leather covers of the Xavier year book. And if he fails (which is unlikely), what then? He will have the satisfaction of realizing he did his best, which is the only satisfaction the most capable of us can have.

Improvement—

The artistic shrubbery recently planted along the fence at the end of the stadium is another important step in the process of beautification so evident on the campus in recent years. We are sure we can speak for the entire student body in expressing thanks for this improvement.

COMMUNICATIONS

A Feature Writer's Letter To His Editor

Friend Frank,—It was understood, I think, that when I was given the position as one of the feature writers of the "News" I had the privilege to write whatever I wished. As a result I have taken it upon myself to write you this week's column in the form of a letter.

When you are finished reading this letter, or column, you and many others might think that I have been obsessed by an abnormal case of melancholy. This isn't so; what has possessed me is a feeling of guilt which has been growing upon me since about 3:30 Sunday morning.

I happened to be in "town" Saturday night and early Sunday (not having the two bucks for the Homecoming Dance) walking about the streets and seeing many interesting things that can be seen in Cincinnati only late at night. There was very little that I didn't see: bums, panhandlers, "jakers," drunks and what not. What started my conscience to burn was the great number of young fellows about my age and yours that were drifting about the city (and Country). In the Graphic-Survey of the past month it was stated that there were about 200,000 of such boys and youngmen begging for food and panhandling for a dime or so, so that they might sleep in one of the city's flops where it was much warmer than sleeping in a park or box-car.

You remember how often we have talked about such conditions while sitting in a restaurant down town. You yourself know how bad things are in this respect. But did you ever ask yourself what could be done about it? I did once or twice but it never disturbed me so much as it did early Sunday morning while I stood outside of a Fourth Street restaurant waiting for a friend of mine. While waiting there, I watched many Xavier students go in this restaurant happy and "cheerful." As they went in they did not notice two young boys—about 17 or 18 years old—standing outside of this restaurant watching the fortunate ones inside eating—and drinking their tomatoe juice. I found out, later, how hungry they really were.

On seeing such a thing one naturally asks himself what could be done for them. But I ask you what can be done about IT? Give them a nickel or a dime? This might temporarily ease the gnawing pain of their stomachs yet it wasn't getting at the basic cause of their being hungry. What could you or I do about it to get at the cause?

Our hands are almost tied in the respect of giving money to those who are hungry but you know, and I know, that our thinking faculties are not—and cannot be—tied down. We can think out some possible solution—or solutions—like the five of us have been attempting for the past year while we talked over our steaming coffee. While we talked we might have differed on small matters but in the end we always came to a satisfactory conclusion whatever the case might have

We have the nucleus of a potential organization in this respect right here at Xavier; but what is stopping us? Why don't we progress? Surely there is enough brains at Xavier to get a fairly large following so that something might be definitely done towards the many problems that face us, and thousands of hungry boys, today. Why don't the four or five of us get busy and get more members to that little group of ours and expand. It doesn't make much difference whether they have Democratic, Socialistic, or Republican views. We would all have the same "end" in view and when we would all sit down and discuss the various subjects dealing with the problems that face us and the rest of the world today I know that we could get something done in a progressive sense. Isn't it strange how the lack of interest in the great problems that are before us today has manifested itself at Xavier? Surely, because we are of a certain faith—which very often is looked upon with asstance by petty minds—is no reason why we should be so neglectful of a duty which is imposed upon us because WE ARE OF THAT FAITH. Why have we been so neglectful, here at Xavier, of that duty? Has the idea, resting in the word "government," frightened us all? It is possible, that there are some others at Xavier who would like to join us in our discussion. If there are why I know that you, Bob, Frank, Mac and myself would be more than glad to have them join because I feel, like you and the other fellows, that there are some who have the same interests as we have. It is possible that they might join us and it is still possible that from among us there might come one who will accomplish a great deal, not for ourselves, but for those who have at present so few to help them.

I don't consider myself an "idealist" because I don't think that helping someone to help himself is "idealism" but Christianity put to actual practice.
Cliff Lange.

FS.—There are, no doubt, about 15 or 20 who think that this letter was pre-arranged between the two of us. Let them think for it is their privilege to do so. As long as people don't try to make us accept what they think we have nothing to say.

The Editor's Reply

Mr. Lange:

If I should address you as my friend, which indeed you are, there would possibly fall upon both a heap of criticism from the horde of readers who prefer editorial formality to sincerity.

So just as an editor to a reader (not even to a feature writer) I address this reply:

Your idea seems a splendid one to me. Such an organization as you outline in your letter could no doubt have a great deal of good effect on the attitude of Xavier students with regard to social problems, and would stimulate more liberal thinking than all your debating societies could ever hope or dare to.

I cannot say here that the "News" is behind you in your attitude of discontent with labor conditions in this country, for I am not the "News." But I can say that the Editor is wholeheartedly in favor of a radical change in the economic system, such as will effect more equitable distribution of national wealth, which is the result of the toil of the masses. This, of course, makes me along with you a radical, a title of which we can both be proud, since it means "one who gets at the root of an evil." And in the intellectual company of Messrs. Bernard Shaw, G. K. Chesterton, Upton Sinclair, and Pope Plus XI, who at bottom have the same idea, and differ only with the means to bring it about, we need not worry that our concern is merely a ramification of premature minds, as some of our wisehead capitalists try to tell us from their thrones of gold in this great "democracy."

Galsworthy—Nobel Prize Winner

This week we present to you a short study of John Galsworthy, who, has just been awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature for 1932. Mr. Galsworthy is one of the foremost present-day British authors, and his "Forsyte Saga" has given him a very high place among our modern novelists. His "Maid in Waiting" published in the spring, was instrumental in winning for him the Nobel Prize.

Mr. Galsworthy has also written quite a few successful plays, of which he regards these as the best: "Justice," "Strife," "The Silver Box" and "Loyalities." Just recently he announced that he would write no more plays, but as Mr. Galsworthy has made this pronouncement before and then rescinded, we are inclined to be a bit skeptical about the finality of this decision.

Many of us no doubt remember Mr. Galsworthy's "Old English," the play in which that excellent actor, George Arliss starred for many years. Though this play is not considered among the best, nevertheless the fine acting of Mr. Arliss made it a theatrical classic.

Coincident with the eminent author's receipt of the Prize has come the publication this month of his most recent novel, "Flowering Wilderness." Both the New York Times and the Chicago Herald-Tribune have commented very favorably on the book.

ALONG AUTHORS ROW

Among the new biographies may be found quite a few about our American business leaders. We have already told you of Burton Hendricks' "Andrew Carnegie"; Ida Tarbell has a life of Owen D. Young; the life of Henry P. Davison by Thomas Lamont is soon to be published; Samuel Crowthier has written a volume on "The Creators of American Wealth", and there is a recent one of John D. Rockefeller by John T. Flynn, titled "God's Gold".

Fearl Buck's latest "Sons", according to THE RETAIL BOOKSELLER, a trade magazine, has sold more copies during the past month than any other novel of recent years, during a like period.

Walter Lippmann, whose daily column appears in the Enquirer, has a book in which he has assembled many of his journalistic efforts of 1931-32—"Interpretations"—a best seller.

You Sax Rohmer fans, here's another new one! "The Mask of Fu Manchu."

Father Nolan, Dean of Men, advises us that more than twenty volumes have already been purchased; among them are: "The Epic of America," "Thirty Years in the United States Senate," "The Life of Stephen Douglas," and others.

 Girls No. 1: Look how they come to the game without a hat so they can show off their wavy hair.

To those that are interested Otto B. Schott wants it to be understood that he actually exists. If you don't believe this to be so just ask the editor he'll prove it. He ought to know! Darling Eileen D, from the down the river boarding school, (and a product of Jackson, Michigan) "just can't believe that such a person as Otto B. Schott really exists." That's all right Eileen, stick around a bit and you'll get a liberal education from Uncle Otto.

Overheard in the Senior Class:
 "Hey, youse guys, Bens has shaved off the lip-tickler."
 A Democratic Voice—"Yeah, but he's still a lug, he voted for Hoover."

Otto B. Schott doffs his derby to Monny Farrell for courage. Monny is attending classes all dressed up in a plaster cast, and some guys stay home for a cold.

Did you know that Jules Fern, besides being a football man, is also a very great Shakespearean Actor?

Little Jack Horner, stood on the corner watching the girls go by, He tipped his lid, to a cute little kid And she gave him a sock in the eye.

Amanda has told us (in the presence of witnesses) that "One Alone" was the very song her Paul razzed Mr. Perry Askam for singing.
 "Perhaps he was trying to improve on Perry", we suggested; "did he?"
 "NO", was the prompt reply.

twister socker down town the other night and laid one of the R. K. O. ushers quite low.

Pennington is becoming so fresh we might call him a "smart-Hallack", and meet with few contradictions.

Did you think Ginoecchio resembled Clark Gable in last week's "News"? Several young ladies (no names mentioned) did.

If this sheet should fall into the hands of the female cousin of that illustrious alumnus, Carl Sprengard, the Editor will not be surprised. Lou Flanagan always was a good deliverer.

WARNING: Linfert, '34, had better remain true to Martha and stay away from her Mt. Adams chums, before Miss Mulligan gets him in a stew.

We also advise a certain sorrel-topped senior to forget his "constitutional rights" when he brushes up against a husky cop. Sassing back is hard on eyes.

We believe the happiest couple at the Homecoming Dance was Erv Stadler and Rosemary. Right, Erv?

 "Nature in the Raw"—was portrayed by the noted artist, H. C. Work... inspired by the famous Capt. Jack's famous words on the gold-fusion Spanish galleon (1519), which made him the courage of the Spanish Main. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and now tobacco has no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.
