PLAYERS TO GIVE THRILLER

Drama Club’s Next Show
To Be Presented Mar. 7

"Ladies in Retirement", the psychological melodrama by Ed- ward F. Schiefflin, was presented Wednesday evening, Feb. 17, by the Drama Club. This play is written to give a good bit of laughter and sentiment, the scenes being well marked with a large portion of laughs. It is the story of three old maids who received a letter from a rich old uncle who left them $50,000. Each one who received this letter was lost in expectation until the day came when they had to divide the money. Each one thought she should get half the money; then each one thought that the other two should each get a quarter of the money. The part of Edna is played by Miss Frances Loftgers. Miss John J. Feiring, assisted by Miss Frances Loftgers and Mrs. Emma Calder.

Globe-Trotters’ Lecture To Feature Annual Parents’ Night Celebration

Parents, instructors, and students will meet on equal terms tonight as O. L. C. holds its annual Parent’s Night. The general motto for the evening is “Behind the gates of the school is a bright candlelight when parents reign as guests of honor.” A buffet supper will be served in the dining hall at 7 p.m. The three hour event will culminate in a community sing, followed by a program narrated by Mr. John J. Feiring.

TO SPEAK ON FRANCE

Dr. Yves Simon, professor of philosophy at the University of Notre Dame, will discuss "The Birth of La France" at Edgecliff auditorium on Sunday, Feb. 21.

To Be April 4

Two groups of numbers are submitted to the Red Cross for entrance to the Blue Network. The numbers are selected, will be awarded the prize. The winners will be, respectively, Jack Borden, Miss Frances Loftgers, and Miss John J. Feiring.

TO PLAYERS

The Rev. Hamlet Accorsi of Sturbridge, Mass., will speak on the Catholic education of their children is the "obligatory "work of parents. Nevertheless we, the children have no right to take this too much for granted. Our parents are performing a sacred duty nobly, generously, and in many instances at great personal sacri-

Equal Rights—

What will be the position in women in our post-war economy? Women, now trained for war work, lack a place in the New Order. Airplanes, menions and other war materials, are doing work which formerly was thought to be exclusively the work of men. Should they be allowed to continue in their jobs now that the war is over?

Proponents of the Equal Rights Amendment have shown the need for legislation that prevent women from enjoying "equal opportunities" with men in seeking employment. Along with the woman's right to work, a clear definition of the men's and women's roles must be established.

The Equal Rights Amendment has again been brought to the attention of congress. It was passed with the support of various women's groups such as the National Woman's Party and the National American Woman's Suffrage Association. The amendment was introduced in Congress in 1923 and has been reintroduced every year since.

The amendment would abolish laws that are traditionally applied to women, such as those concerning marriage, divorce, and inheritance. It would also provide for equal rights in the workplace, education, and the right to vote.

Although the amendment has not been ratified by the states, it has gained significant support from women's rights groups and has been a topic of discussion in the media and political circles.

Conclusion

In conclusion, the Equal Rights Amendment is a crucial step in the fight for women's rights. It would provide women with the same opportunities as men, including the right to vote, the ability to enter into contracts, and the right to own property.

The amendment has been a topic of discussion for many years, and there is still some opposition to it. However, with continued support from women's rights groups and the general public, it is hoped that the amendment will eventually be ratified and become law.

Edgcliff. There was the time the state inspectors were observing classes, and Sister Delora laughs in remembering. She recalls the preparations of the nuns and the awed attention of the girls in their endeavor to impress the visitors. Then, in the French class, Father Urban, asked, "Miss Brinker, how do you translate 'petit chou'?"

"Well, how about 'mon petit chou?" asked Father Urban. Realizing that 'chou' literally means cabbage, Margaret was at a loss, but finally replied, "Little green sprout." Inspired, instructor, and class indulged in hearty laughter, while the class prankster blushed most shyly.

SURPRISE FRIENDS

Regarded as a fun-loving girl by her professors and peers, showing tendencies toward the religious life, she left her friends gasping when she suddenly announced she had become a sister and promptly entered the novitiate in the September following her graduation.

Sister Delora has the highest praise for O.L.C. "Even in those first two years it was wonderful," she says. Everything we did was without precedent. We knew that what we were doing would be followed in the years to come. The going was hard at times but the results were always pleasing.

THANKS TO MERCERS

With a major in mathematics, Sister Delora minored in French and English. Today, she is in charge of the freshman class at Monier of Mercy, and also teaches in the academy. In her "little" off moments, Sister Delora is preparing a thesis on the history of the Work Academy. Naturally, she enjoys teaching Mercers and of her girls ex-

STUDENT BRIGADE AIDS FR. STRITCH

A typewriter brigade has been formed by Edgcliff students to assist the Rev. Alfred Stritch, history instructor, in conducting a campaign for the benefit of the Widowhood of the American Sisters of Perpetual Adoration, Madison, Cincinnati. The students are addressing envelopes in which letters are being sent to prospective members of the Guild of the Prince of Peace, an organization of Catholics interested in the work of the Dominican sisters.

Mary Burns gives Report at War Chest Meeting

Mary Burns, sophomore, gave a brief talk at the War Chest Ball luncheon meeting held on Feb. 12 at the Hotel Gibson. Reports were made on the progress of the campaign. Miss Burns reported on the War Chest work accomplished by the students.
