Villa President Guest Speaker at Graduation

Heading the list of 109 seniors, Charlene Frias and Betty Wilton, were graduated nun sedeles tonight at the twenty-sixth commencement exercises of Our Lady of Cincinnati College.

The Rev. Most Rev. Karl J. Alter conferred the degrees on the candidates as they were presented by the Rev. Alfred G. Strijich, chairman of the social sciences division.

State provisional teaching certificates were presented to 10 seniors on the elementary level to Barbara Brision, Lois Conforti, Rileen Dancsóvich, rose Mary Roman, Carol Justo, Carol Mitchell, Barbara Nunn, Patricia Massey; on the secondary level, certificates were presented to Di-
My Dear Graduates....

As the members of this year's graduating classes of the colleges throughout the nation advance to receive their eagerly sought academic diplomas, they will, no doubt, be frequently aware of the significant role they are about to play in today's challenging scene.

The graduates of a Catholic liberal arts college, understand something of your priceless cultural heritage. You know, also, that your alumni responsibility to safeguard this precious item in that bequest. I have no fear that you will fail in your trust.

As you leave this campus of Our Lady to begin your life's work, I should like to recall for you a thought from the Meditations of Cardinal Newman.

God has created me to do Him some service; He has committed something to me which I must do. I cannot do many things, but I will do the one thing which I can do better than anyone else on this face of the earth. That one thing I will do. - Cardinal Newman

I have no fears for you, my dear Graduates, that you may not find lasting happiness in the realisation of God's given task. In this contemporary scene, where Our Holy Father stresses that "no soul can afford to be mediocre," may your life be a reflection of that statement and be an incitement to further action. Now that we can see the beginning of a program which will require long-range planning, we must not afford to be silent. The questioning of our viewpoints, which demonstrated a fine student effort for the fund, is the only the beginning of a program which will require long-range planning, we will continue to respond to those who can make this education possible.

The Catholic college is today a viable institution and can no longer afford to be silent. The questioning of our viewpoints, our beliefs has been pushed to the foreground, and every Catholic today has a role to play or be connected to what is happening in the Church. It is our responsibility to speak intelligently on his religion.

Every one who has contributed to the development of the Catholic college has contributed to this effort. Contributing support must match the present momentum of the drive for it to be successful. We who realize the importance of Catholic education in our times must continue to respond to the pleas of those who can make this education possible.

Action Yields Progress

The construction now underway on campus is very significant in the history of Edgcliff's development. It marks the beginning of a program which will result in the expansion of present facilities and the construction of new buildings which will help fulfill the promise of the long-range plan of providing Catholic higher education for an increasing population. Buildings are already transforming the campus as you have observed and new classroom and laboratory facilities have been taken from the drawing board and the actual building is now underway.

Everyone who has contributed to the development of the Catholic College for Women has contributed to this effort. Contributing support must match the present momentum of the drive for it to be successful. We who realize the importance of Catholic education in our times must continue to respond to the pleas of those who can make this education possible.

The Catholic college graduate who, as a person set apart, is expected to be a model of virtue to be almost a specialist in Catholic philosophy and theology.

The Catholic college, therefore, must be able to compete with non-Catholic institutions of higher learning. With its primary purpose of developing the whole man, the Catholic college must develop its resources in all phases of its work. And we, who are the spokesmen of the not-so-distant future, must help. We can help by participating in the fund-raising activities which will be sponsored in behalf of the Edgcliff Development Program. Many Edgcliff associations have already contributed their share, and we all know that there are still others residing in the city who have pledged their support.

The progress of the construction already achieved should be an incitement to further action. Now that we can see the actual results of our efforts, we must remember that this is not only the beginning of a program which will require long-range effort to attain completion.

Learn In Leisure

Your last class! Your last exam! Now there is nothing to worry about this summer. If you have studied your texts, your summer school is not for you and having spent two weeks "communicating" with mastering that year, you begin looking for a summer job. However, this is not necessary to you (anyway) can be elusive so that by the end of June you are certain that summer jobs are in extinct species. Perhaps monetary acquisition is not necessary for you. Nevertheless, to keep ennui from taking the student's lemonitic head, you decide that you must do something constructive.

There are several alternatives. You can volunteer your services to a community project or get a summer job in your own city. No, you don't have to read them again - just the marginal notes. Often, the short names of books various teachers have mentioned in passing -- books you remember from time.

By this time, Time, and plenty of it, has arrived. So, get your historical biographies, contemporary novels, philosophical analyses, thrillers and the like, up at your leisure. You can not only Seventeen and Glamour, but also Time and Newsweek. To keep up with the times, try reading a book, or perhaps throw in a French translation of Mark Twain or Max Shulman's God's Little Acre. It is your summer vacation.

By September, you who were "lassie" may have benefited most! Not only do you have a pseudo-seaside tan, but you also have caught up on some of your extracurricular reading.

The Arts

by Norsh Edelman '81

"The Arts," like everything else, will pack its folio and go on a vacation during the summer months. But the summer months will bring a full program of events to the Queen City.

The Playhouse in the Park opens on Saturday, June 28, under new management and with renewed verve. The recently established Board of Directors has acquired the talented Mr. Michael Albonelli, Jr., of New York, as producer-director.

While at the Playhouse, I had the good fortune to meet and interview Mr. Alan Kimmell, the set designer. He discussed what he was going to do for the production, 'Song of Norway,' which staged a fine student effort for the fund.

The Beethoven Orchestra under Mr. Edwin John纳斯, Jr., has announced the program which had last year's season's most popular performance, the 'Barber of Seville.' This year, the orchestra will be given June 7 - 25.

The arts and crafts seasons will be completely heightened the intensity of stage effects all over the platform. The combination of scenery and costuming will be given June 7 - 25.

In Cincinnati, performances of works by Verdi and Stravinsky, and the tri-level parking scheme heightened the intensity of stage effects all over the platform. The combination of scenery and costuming will be given June 7 - 25.

Renewed verve. The recently established Board of Directors has acquired the talented Mr. Michael Albonelli, Jr., of New York, as producer-director.

The Missouri Opera Company, the Ann Arbor Symphony Orchestra, and the New York Philharmonic will appear in Cincinnati, performances of works by Verdi and Stravinsky. Also there will be performances of 'Aida,' 'Macbeth,' and 'Don Giovanni.'

Many favorites are included in the program for the season:

Peters and Rossini in the part of Rossini in 'The Barber of Seville.'

Mary Crowned Queen Of May

The House of Edgecliff presented a trunk showing of original spring fashions May 9 in the auditorium. Each of the costumes modeled was made by the wearer under the direction of Mrs. Whitlock Disher, instructor in the home economics department. Members of the Mothers Club and senior class were special guests at the showing.

Following the style show, a tea was given in the rose dining room.

"On this feast, commemorative of the first Pentecost, we behold a woman, our Queen, surrounded by the apostles praying and awaiting the promised Paraclete"... thus spoke the Rev. Martin Garry, O.P., chairman of Edgecliff’s philosophy department.

The occasion was the 1961 May crowning on the Edgecliff campus Sunday, May 21. This traditional ceremony was held on the circle in front of Emery.

Boy in a Grey Overcoat
by Mary Sue Kampe ’71

Damage done to a child by a broken home background has received much emphasis in recent psychiatric literature. It has been touched on by novelists as the source of numerous crimes and other emotional disinfluences. Few novelists, however, have treated the subject in the same manner as does Jean Rose in Boy in a Grey Overcoat. The child Colin is not a boy who becomes delinquent because of his mother’s divorces and remarriages. The damage has been done much earlier and is due to the quarreling between his parents.

Withdrawn
For the most part of the book, the novel is an unassuming child who exhibits every behavior problem known to psychology. He is unable to cope with the turmoil around him from birth, and so he withdraws from the world. His actions amount to those of a retarded child, but behind these actions there is a glimmering of intelligence that is being unconsciously suppressed through his own unhappiness and the neglect of those regard him as an incorrigible or feeble-minded child.

Expensive Hapiness
The story is completed by his beautiful, demanding mother who, after realising that happiness is expensive, involves him in two unsuccessful marriages, three broken homes and complete rejection by Colin and his sister.

Although not a propaganda novel for any religious or medical group, Boy in a Grey Overcoat is a powerful plea against the insanity of divorces.

Pi Delta Inducts Five Aspirants
Five students were initiated into Edgewciff’s chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalistic fraternity. Monday afternoon.

Jayne Ann Woods ’64, Juliana Gehling ’64, Patricia Merritt, ’62, Kathleen Bartlett ’62 and Donna Kennedy ’62 were initiated at a secret ceremony held in Emery.

Prior to the initiation, a tea was held at Emery for all members of Pi Delta Epsilon and the staff of The Edgecliff. Presents were given at this time to Dr. Daniel Steible, Sarah Thompson Watson and Helen Detel in appreciation of their help during the past year and to Betty Woods for her work as the editor of The Edgecliff.

Recently elected officers of the chapter are: Kathleen Bartlett, president, and Mary Clark Schulte, vice-president. Kathleen Bartlett treasurer will be held next fall at the beginning of the next academic year.

Summer Travels Among Faculty
Dr. Anna K. Grundhem, assistant professor of German, begins a 11-month sabbatical leave this month, spending most of her time in Germany.

Mid June through July Dr. Grundhem will study elementary Russian. July to September will be spent visiting friends and familiar places in Europe.

In September she will study at the Institute of Research on Soviet Culture in Moscow, and in October will take two seminars of Soviet Russian at the University of Munich, largest in West Germany.

Dr. Grundhem hopes to tour either the Holy Land or the Near East with the Munich Pax Christi group.

Dr. Biermann M. A. Beto, professor of English and classics, will teach English in the summer Session of Our Lady of Cincinnati College.

He plans to attend The English Institute in New York City, Sept. 5-8. This is a group of literary scholars, teachers, critics and creative writers, which meets annually under the auspices of Columbia, Princeton and Yale universities, the University of Rochester and the Claremont Graduate School.

Dr. Daniel Steible, head of the English department, also will teach at Edgewcliff’s Summer Session.

He will attend the North NF Congress Set For August
Representatives from Catholic colleges and universities across the country will gather at Pitts­burgh's Penn State Bratz Hotel Aug. 28-Sept. 2 for the Eighteenth National NCUCS Congress.

For the first time, the Congress is to discuss and to plan programs for the coming year. Each of the four national secre­taries will hold workshops—International Affairs; on the China question; Religious Affairs; on the lay ministry movement; and Social Action Affairs; on interracial jus­tice; Student Affairs; on student roles in the political process.

Special attention will be given to the New Student Congress Program: "Freedom and Responsibil­ity in a Democratic Society." Included in this topic are political and socio-economic ideals.

Another important function of the congress is the passage of resolutions stating the position of Catholic college students on im­portant issues.

Other highlights will include election of national officers, the presentation of the Archbishops' Award to a layman in recogni­tion for outstanding achievement in the lay apostolate, and a banquet and ball.

Registration for the congress is $16; hotel accommodations range from $4-87 per day.

Other sessions will be held prior to the Congress. The September 28-29 conference, Aug. 24-26, will develop the theme: "Maturity: Key to Understanding the Future." The conference will discuss such problems as campus drinking, the sexual revolution, and religious morality and maturity and life responsibility as well as the responsibility, authority and scope of student government.

NPCUS delegates and Interna­tional Relations Council Presidents will participate in the Interna­tional Relations Seminars, Aug. 25-28. The seminars will include the refresher local situations of Latin America, China, Israel and Algeria. Seminars registration fee is $8.

Prior to the opening of the Congress will be a meeting of the National Council, composed of national officers and two representa­tives (president and vice­president) from each of the five regions.

Additional information on all congress activities may be obtained from Susan Gruber, new director of National Affairs.

Central Association Workshop at Michigan State University, the first of August, as a consultant on higher education. He will be guest speaker August 21 at the Writers’ Workshop being conducted by Wittenberg College on its campus.

Candle Passes To Grace Moss

Traditional ceremonies yesterday marked the end of another academic year and the end of college life as Edciff for the seniors.

At the student convention, Diane Bard, president of Student Council, and Kathleen Byrne, emcee, welcomed the far-off guests, prepared for the graduating class. Each class presented their gift to the College and unveiled their class picture.

Each class screened the seniors with parade of popular songs written for the occasion, and the seniors sang their song to the students.

As the scene shifted outdoors to Emory circle, the daisy chain was passed from the seniors to the juniors who arranged the chain into an "E" for Edciff.

Diane Bard turned the candle on the cup of each student to show the successful completion of another year. The seniors then planted a rose bush behind Emory. Later in the afternoon, the seniors donated the special gift to the College and unveiled their class picture.

It is advisable to litter the pig with butter several hours before the party begins - pigs grasped at the last moment tend to burn.

As an added festive touch, one can always put a Washington apple in his (the pig's) mouth and paint a face on it. The original idea was to have the guests "Keep Occupied".

Anhedral G.L.D.

One of the most important parts of this party - which is especially designed to relax G.L.D. (Graduate Let-Downs) - is the informal place where the affair is to occur. The six should lend itself to the occasion, a huge, sunny barbecue pit. Of course, it is preventive for the green pig which is to be the main course.

There is advisable to sit on your own stool during the ceremony behind Emory. Following the formations, Diane Bard passed the candle, symbolizing the passing of knowledge, to Grace Moss, her successor as president of Student Council.

Priest Recalls Varied Duties

The Rev. Martin Garry, O.P., of the College of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination at 10:30 a.m. on June 5 Father Garry, with 23 classmates, was ordained a priest in the Dominican Order in St. Dominico Church, Washington, D.C. After his ordination, Father Garry returned to the Dominican House of Studies in Washington for one full year, after which he was awarded a Doctorate in Theology, a degree in which is necessary before a priest is allowed to teach theology. In September, 1942, Father returned to the House of Studies as a teacher, and at the same time he was acting as Chaplain at the Veterius Hospital in Washington until 1945.

The next two years were spent at Loyola, University in Quebec where he received his Doctorate in Philosophy. From 1947 to 1952 Father Garry was a part-time graduate student at the University of Copenhagen in the Department of Physics.

During his time in Cincinnati, Father Garry taught at Xavier, later had a teaching position in parah work. He offered Mass on alternating Sundays at St. Gertrude Church, the Dominican parish in Madeira, for eight and a half years. He assisted as a regular confessor at St. Margaret's of Cortland parish for three years.
