My Dear Graduates:

The final events of your undergraduate years are near you in an auspicious close. In the presence of devoted parents, friends, members of the College Administration, faculty, and distinguished guests you are about to receive formal recognition of your successful Striadaeum. I would like to congratulate you, heartily, for this achievement.

I need not remind you of the great need in today's world of young women possessing the spiritual and intellectual marks that distinguish them as graduates of a Catholic college. I do trust and stay that in your daily life you may find yourself in a situation where you will have to use the fulfillment of the Christian ideals that have been set before you. With deep earnestness I urge you to assume your role as educated Catholic women with generosity and courage, remembering that "it is not what we take up, but what we give up" that makes us rich in the things that count. All of us here at Edgecliff will follow your progress in the years ahead with unfailing interest and prayerful expectation.

My own warm personal greetings are extended to each graduate. Just as I have sincerely applauded all your attainments during your college years, so shall I maintain an裴ｌｉｎｄｉｒｅｎ for all that you accomplish in the future. I assure you of a special place in my heart and prayers.

May the blessings of the Sacred Heart constantly attend you through the years and may Our Lady's motherly protection be your portion each day of your lives.

Devotedly,

President

Are We Thinking Less?

Ideas, like fashions, change with time! Certainly the relative importance of original thought has been given less and less importance as this twentieth century progresses.

Prior to the turn of the century, secondary education was followed by full college courses in the classical languages of both Latin and Greek, as well as in a modern language. A philosophical and theological background was considered essential for a student well founded in liberal arts. This was the basis or groundwork upon which the mental superstructure of specialization had been built. This was the preparatory training which produced the great thinkers of the last century.

But today the value of such preliminary training is limited—in fact, in some quarters, scoffed at. Today we are specialists at an early age.

We train mathematical geniuses who have never heard of the Mystical Body of Christ. We train sociological experts who cannot keep their own families intact and who end in divorce courts.

We produce doctors who favor abortion and "mercy killing." We produce lawyers who fail to protect the rights of the innocent, who are not above accepting bribes and selling their professional influence. In brief, we create mental Frankenstein's who excel in a given field but fail to learn to live with themselves, their neighbors and their God.

We need less "parrot-like" assimilation of facts and more ability to fashion a few of life's truths. Only by original thought will we develop a true Belairistic, a school for a Belvoir! The ability to think a situation to its logical and ultimate conclusions and to properly evaluate the problems of everyday life should be given more emphasis in our educational system today.

Brain Dusting Pays Off

The summer vacation that seemed so far away to the student engaged in class work, exams and projects during the past semester has finally come. With the pressure of final textbooks and notebooks and relaxing for a while.

For some it will be only a matter of weeks before they are back at the books in summer school. But for those who plan a summer of travel, relaxation or work, it would be a good idea to catch up on a few of the books which are related to their major. A valuable dividend will accrue to the person who uses her leisure summer moments to advantage.

Father Bishop: Glenmary Missionary

cathedral Text 93

On April 17, 1937, Father Howard Bishop made this jubilant note in his diary in heavy black ink: "The Archdiocesan Committee approves the Bishop's request to go to China next year— and the Glenmary Missionaries were born.

Father Bishop was 51 years of age when Archbishop McNicholas agreed to headquarter the Society of Glenmary in Cincinnati. In just six years—from 1937 to his death in 1953—he built the society to an organization with apostolic approval, a society composed of priests, brothers and sisters.

Father Bishop by Herman Ken- ten is the story of Father Bishop's life, and especially of his activities at Glenmary.

Organizations

As you know the book you will be impressed by how one man with no money, no members and no headquarters, with only faith and hope, organized one of the most important mission societies in rural America.

When he died, Father Bishop had organized Glenmary into a growing society and had already turned some of his missionaries back to their dioceses. And all this from a modest cottage, seemingly without executive ability. But his appearance was deceiving. He seemed to be above the surface and shows the profundity of man that he really was, a man deeply spiritual and with a marvelous ability to persuade other men to follow him.

Chinese Refugees Return to Starve?

by Kathleen Bartlett and Suzanne Groe

Although the stream of refugees into Hong Kong has slowed down considerably in recent days, a word of gratitude must be extended to the British government for helping to relieve the problem.

There is no question about it—the Red Chinese are suffering from a devastating famine. The Communist Chinese leaders are importing grain from the free world. Therefore, to relieve a little pressure on themselves, the Peking government is permitting thousands of Chinese to escape from the British colony of Hong Kong.

Hong Kong, with the population of over 3.3 million, is relatively small in size. The plight of the refugees is beyond belief to most Americans, but the refugees definitely prefer to exist here rather than in Red China.

The British authorities allowed the refugees to enter Hong Kong simply could not hold any more. They had to turn the refugees back to the slavery of starving Red China.

Some, however, have agreed to take some refugees, but this offer is only for "new" refugees of April and May and does not apply to the "old" refugee of which there are 1.3 million.

But Formosa, Nationalist China, is already overcrowded. Other nations such as the United States, Australia and the Philippines are much less crowded and could present more opportunity to these unfortunate Chinese. But it is almost impossible for an Asian to enter one of these countries.

Why is it that the free, western countries always encourage the people to escape from the tyranny of Communism, but when these refugees look for somewhere to go, they find the doors of these "friendly" nations barred?

Two Edgecliff Seniors Serve as Volunteers

Two more Edgecliff students have been accepted as lay volunteers.

Seniors Monica Ruppert and Carol Dwyer volunteered respectively for the Latin American (PAVLA) and Volunteer Teachers Service (VTS). Carol Dwyer will teach in Texas during the 1962-63 school year as a part of the Volunteer Teacher Service. This organization is a smaller branch of the Peace Corps, which staffs schools in Texas and South Carolina. The schools are mostly mission schools that lack teachers because of financial problems or because of a shortage of qualified personnel.

The program is supported by the pastor of the parish helped. The volunteers are provided with room and board and receive $100 per month salary. They must pay for their transportation to and from the place where they are stationed.

The VTS is about four years old. It is open to both men and women under the age of 35 for a year or more. They are given a choice as to whether they would prefer to go to and from what grade they would like to teach.

Monica Ruppert is the first PAVLA volunteer from the Cincinnati Archdiocese. She will leave for the Central Training Institute in October. At the PAVLA training institute in Cuernavaca, Mexico, a four month course in Spanish, Latin American cultural orientation and leadership guidance will be provided for the volunteers.

An education major, Monica will teach English and catechism in the pre-school flyer’s school in Guatamala. She has been undergoing a series of tests and interviews to determine her intellectual background and language abilities.

PAVLA volunteers are furnished room and board plus a salary of $100 per month. The workers are asked to volunteer for not less than three years because of the expense of the training program and transportation.

PAVLA’s representative in charge of volunteers in the Cincinnati Archdiocese is the Rev. Henry K. Roedel, O.S.B. The group’s program is the Rev. Vincent L. Schuyler, assistant professor of history.

President of Edgecliff Sodality, Daughters of St. Vincent de Paul, will be Joan Winstel. A home economics major, Kathie Mullaney has been elected president of the Home Economics Club, Phylis Scherman, vice-president, Marilyn Nofield, secretary, and Kathleen Niemaher, treasurer, will assist her. Phylis, an English major, will preside at Literary Guild meetings. Secretary of Dalton, an art major, Vice-president is Joan Winstel.

A home economics major, Kathleen Mullaney was one at the annual home economics convention at Notre Dame University. The girls will be free to travel as they please, but an insane overconfidence brings on the madness that finally causes his doom.

The Tassel of Each Girl’s Cap was the final event, the War of the Roses, in the three performances for five dollars. Ruppert will fill the office of make-up artist. Her assistant will be Mary Rothennhofer, art editor. Suzanne Gruenbauer in Munich and attend to their duties. The 1962 edition of The Massico, Edgecliff’s literary annual, was distributed.

Seniors Carol Dwyer (left) and Monica Ruppert exchange details about the VTS and PAVLA programs for which they have volunteered.

Students Elect New Officers

Election of officers for the 1962-63 year was held at most club meetings during May.

Art major, Carolyn Beck will be president of the Art and Literary Committee. She will be assisted by Carol Kunsmeier, vice-president, Cecille Brew, secretary, and Linda Smith, treasurer.

Gayle Brown, French major, will preside over CCMC meetings. Joan Stahl, German major, will be vice-president. The girls are planning a series of Chesterton for the Central Training Institute convention at Notre Dame University.

Edgcliff Players will be headed by Claire Arling, speech major. Mary Sue Brunstein will be vice-president; Margaret Plant, secretary, and Terence Romwemer, treasurer.

Other members of the staff for 1962-63 include: circulation editor Suzanne Hunt ’64, feature editors Dena Bachman ’65 and Joanne Shackleton ’66, sports editor Mary Rothennhofer ’60, art editor Carol Mass Opens Traditional Day

Mass for the senior class offered by the Rev. Daniel D. McKenzie, bishop of the Archdiocese, of the archdiocese of Cincinnati.

At 2 p.m., Grace moss, president of Student Council, and Nancy McDaniel, president of the junior class president, opened the final student convocation in the Theatre. They gave farewells for the graduating class to the student body. Presentation of the seniors’ gift to the college and the unveiling of the class of ’62’s class monument followed.

Each class then sang to the seniors a parody written to the tune of some popular song. The graduates reciprocated with a song to the tune “Hey, Look Me Over.”

Pictures Recall Highlights of Memorable College Year

The annual meeting of the Midwest College and University Department was held at Edgcliff in November. Pictured above are (left to right) Rev. Alfred G. Stritch, chairman of the history department; Rev. William F. Kelley, S.J., academic vice-president of Creighton University (chairman); Archbishop Karl J. Alter Dr. Siegmund A. E. Betz, professor of English and classics (secretary-treasurer); Bro. Julius Edgar, F.S.C., dean of St. Mary's College, Winona, Minn., (chairman-eleoct).

The school year was officially opened in September by a Mass held outdoors behind Emery Hall. The Rev. Alfred G. Stritch, college chaplain, was the celebrant.

Edgecliff's Glee Club sang at the formal opening of the Academy of Fine Arts, an outstanding event of December. A preview of Royal Gambit and the "Ball of the Cloth of Gold" were given for the Academy's benefactors, patrons and sponsors.

Four guests from India joined in a dance at the All Nations Party in February. The International Relations Club and the Catholic Students Mission Crusade sponsored the dinner and party for international students and professional people in Cincinnati.
Prom, May Day, Fashion Show, Concert Climax May Events

Mr. and Mrs. Max Hirsch came to the Edgecliff Academy of Fine Arts, May 4, to hear the violin concert of Linda Sharon (center). Mr. Hirsch is a composer. Both he and his wife are violinists and music lovers.

"O Mary we crown thee with blossoms today," was sung May 20 as senior Maureen Bonfield, prefect of the Sodality, placed a crown of flowers on a statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The ceremony started with a procession led by Carol Coggrove through the honor guard of Xavier University’s Peshing Rifle Corps.

The Rev. Alfred G. Stritch, chairman of the history department, led the recitation of an Act of Consecration for the Month of May.

The Rev. Norbert McCarthy, member of the theology department, delivered the sermon.

Parsnips and Rutabaga

by Georgia Frank '62

The other afternoon I was munching on a parsnip burger, which is made by placing one hamburger between two lengthwise halves of a parsnip. I was thinking of exam week, graduation week, weekend, week before Christmas, week before Christmas and New Year's Eve, a division of the Public Relations Department.

The message is promoting its interests.

Still in the planning stage are the New York state and the weekend events for the benefit of out-of-town girls, it is promoting its interests.

The presentation ends as the girl completes her four years of college, following the last exciting month of theater, class day and other traditional Edgcliff celebrations.

The Fathers Club, which has sponsored the Edgcliff Story for the past eight years, will be the Edgcliff girls in the Cincinnati area.

Voices of the Future

The volume which takes place in Freshmen Week at Edgcliff. For the first time, the Edgcliff Yearbook, which is produced by students, will also be in the Edgcliff girls in the Cincinnati area.
