Roman Grandeur Prevalts At Prom Tonight

Joanne Grace, president of the Student Council, will reign this evening at the biennial Student Prom, held in the aesthetic and historic Northwest Hotel as queen of the Junior Prom.

The entire student body and members of the faculty have been invited to attend the dance, sponsored by the junior class.

Decorations will center on the theme, "Forever Romans," chosen by the juniors. According to Margaret Yots, chairman of hotel decorations, a fountain, graced with Mediterranean fruits and flowers, will "provide the proper Roman atmosphere."

Table decorations of grapes and flowers will emphasize the regal colors of gold and green.

Throughout the evening, Bill Beckner, and his orchestra will play favorite songs selected by each class. The dance floor will be reserved for each class as its song is played.

At 11 p.m., Sally Schulte, chairman of the coronation committee, will lead the senior class in procession to receive their gifts. The favorite song of each attendant and the queen will be played as they, along with their escorts, follow the other seniors down the aisle.

Deanna Hoetker, general chairman, will then present Joanne with a bouquet of roses and crown her as queen.

Following the coronation, Joanne will present a bouquet at a statue of Our Blessed Mother, while those attending sing the school hymn.

The regal dance of the queen and her court will end the evening.

New President

Cheryl Zimarron is Edgcliff's new Student Council president. Sister Mary Virginia announced her election at a coronation of the student body in Breann Memorial Library.

Cheryl, along with junior Deanna Hoetker and Sally Schulte, had petitioned for the office under the new system recently inaugurated.

Cheryl is the daughter of Mrs. and Mr. James Zimarron.

The formal opening of the new Emery American Legion will be preceded by the May Festival, composed of the combined choruses, a combination of the entire student body.

The May Festival Chorus, composed of the combined choruses, will perform the performance, "Selections from the May Festival," which will perform each night of the Festival. It will include "about half of the singers are new to the chorus, a unifying link since the institution of the May Festival in 1873. I'm sure that their presence in the 230-member chorus will give a vitality to the chorus."

In its 92nd year, the biennial May Festival presents four musical evenings featuring internationally famous singers, composers, and instrumentalists. The May Festival Chorus is joined this year by the combined choruses: the chorals of Our Lady of Cincinnati College and the University of Cincinnati Conservatory; and the choirs of Mount, St. Mary Seminary, Christ Episcopal Church, the Hyde Park Community Methodist Church, and the St. Thomas Episcopal Church.

Mr. Robert Knaut, (standing) chormaster for the May Festival, discusses the music with Mr. Helmut Roehrig, director of Edgcliff's Choral Group.

Edgcldiff Sings In May Festival Chorus

The Edgcliff Choral Group will join the May Festival Chorus and combined choruses to sing Bacho- son's "Hallelujah" and Brahms' "German Requiem," Friday evening, May 21.

Mr. Helmut Roehrig, director of Edgcliff's Choral Group, has worked with Mr. Robert Knaut, director of the Chorus for the May Festival.
Sister Mary Grace

While present students of Edgecliff did not have the opportunity to know Sister Mary Grace in person, they are benefiting from her extraordinary dedication during the college's early years. And so they, along with the faculty and former students who had the advantage of personal association with Sister Mary Grace, mourn her passing.

Sister Mary Grace was the college's registrar when it opened in 1935. She was a member of the Province of Cincinnati from 1940 to 1946, provincial from 1946 to 1958, and in 1952 she was named president of Edgecliff, a post she filled admirably until she withdrew from active operation five years ago with the title of president-emeritus.

But Sister Mary Grace added lustre not only to the local educational scene. She was one of the developers of the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges, a fund-raising operation now nationally recognized.

The results of her vision, her talent, her wise administration will have far reaching effects throughout the years to come.

Spring Fever Hits Campus

The campus of Edgecliff is beautiful these days — the flowers are in full bloom, the grass was never greener. A solemn invitation to look back on the year and do nothing, isn't it?

But wait! Look at the calendar. Examinations will be looming overhead soon. In just two short weeks those semi-annual brain teasers will be staring us in the face. It might not be a bad idea to do a little basking in the books.

Gingersnaps

by Teresa Barwick '65

It was the night of the big court mask, and Perdita Faustus had a simply magnificent escort. Sir Marlowe D’Urberville had generously consented to equite her to the affair after a relatively small amount of persuasion. Sir Philip had threatened to put a toad in his armor if he refused.

Perdita was in a state of fluttered gaiety — nervous hysteria would be more exact — as she dressed for the masquerade. Sir Marlowe was going as Lancelot and she was to be "the Lady of the Lake." She had made an elegant gown of woven seaweed and had arranged for her chambermaid to deirse her with river water so she would look more authentically. She was even wearing fish-bait perfumes.

But alas! alas! Fortune spurn her wheel and finding it rusted, took her galloping means out on Perdita and Marlowe. Just before he was supposed to call for her, a paper arrived and Marlowe had met with a terrible mishap. He had somehow gotten his helmet on backwards and the helmet of a can opener was being emplaced on his head. He sent his sincere regrets and a corage of water fliees.

Hamlet burst into tears, making it unnecessary for the maid to deirse her even as she were going. She had just gone through her 42nd hankie when a strange light filled the room. Looking up she saw a funny little old lady sitting on her bed.

"You're wrinkling my spread," she said between nods.

"I am your fairy godmother," the lady said, ignoring her.

"You're still wrinkling my spread," replied Perdita.

"Silly girl," said the lady, "You want to go to the mask don't you? Well, I can arrange it."

"I want to go to the mask," exclaimed Perdita, "I can't go with a suit of armor!"

"Why not?" replied her godmother.

"It's a costume ball, isn't it?"

So Perdita went to the ball introducing her date as Sir Armand Ru.

Actually they had a very nice time, but Perdita's laudness never did understand how she got red spots on her white gloves at a costume ball.

Movie Informs College Students About WAVES

"College Women in the Armed Forces," a film narrated by Chet Huntley, was shown by Lt. Charlene Suneson at a convocation of Juniors and freshmen April 28.

In her talk to the students, Lt. Suneson said that the United States Navy is one of the largest and most diversified organizations in the world. Young women should be aware of the opportunities available as an officer in the U.S. Navy, she added.

According to the lieutenant, only high school graduates are accepted by the Navy.

"If you wish to enter as an officer a college degree is necessary," she said. "Turkish, Arabic and Chinese are the languages to study if you want to be in demand by the Navy."

Further information concerning the WAVES division of the Navy can be obtained at the placement office on the main floor of the Federal Building in downtown Cincinnati.

Violinist Will Give Recital

Mr. Max Rabinovitch, a member of the college's music department, will give a violin recital, open to the public, in the Edgcliff Theatre on campus at 8:30 p.m. Friday, May 14. Dorothy Stolzenbach Payne will be his accompanist. The program will include selections from Violatti, DeBussey, Howard Fergusen and Mozart.

Mr. Rabinovitch, who was a pupil of Rudolf Serkin and has played with symphony orchestras in New Orleans and Ottawa, is a native of Brussels. He is assistant professor of music at the University of Cincinnati College of Conservatory.

During the s m a r t m e , Mr. Rabinovitch will participate in the Marlboro Festival in Vermont, conducted by Rudolf Serkin. He will also be a part of a tour sponsored by the U.S. State Department during the latter part of summer and the beginning of autumn. The tour will include Europe and the Near East.

When he returns to the United States, he will assume his new role as concert master of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

"I have enjoyed my year at Edgcliff very much," stated Mr. Rabinovitch, "and am very sorry to leave."

FCSCS Elects Local Candidate

Edgcliff's candidate, sophomore Lynde Radford, was elected executive vice-president at the Regional Spring Congress of the National Federation of Catholic College Students held April 24 in Memphis, Tennessee.

The sponsors of the Congress, Sigma College and Christian Brothers College, chose as their theme, "Catholic Higher Education." The elections of the regional officers for the 1965-1966 school year highlighted the general council meeting, held the last day of the Congress.

Other newly-elected officers included: president, Ken Roberge of Christian Brothers College; second vice-president, Joseph Thuot of Xavier University; secretary, Pat Ockert of Cariri University; treasurer, John Dever of Marquette University. Other candidates running from Cincinnati were Emery Stolzenbach and Carol Delaney of Mt. St. Joseph.

These attending the Congress from Our Lady of Cincinnati were: Sylvia Biew, Criscia Russell, Elaine Schulz and Lynde Radford.

Style Show Highlights Mothers' Luncheon

Home Economics students in the clothing construction classes will model their own creations at the Mothers Club luncheon May 17.

The Garden Room will be the setting for the informal modeling of "Edgcliff's Spring Beauties."

Paula McPhelin, a senior home economics major who helped organize the program, stated that the show will be original and the styles varied.

"The students used imagination and artistry in their individual choixes of patterns, materials and combinations of textures and colors," she explained. "Cheryl Wilke, for example, has made a matching hat for her green silk print blouse. And Judy Heinger has designed a red and green plaid mobie jump suit. The girls' costumes are as varied as their personalities."

Under the direction of Mrs. Wlllhek Dicke, instructor of the clothing construction classes, the students progressed from simple skirts and blouses to dresses, suits and jackets. And they have learned to work with such "difficult" materials as madders and silk.

Students who will be participating in the style show are: Kathryn Cloose, Mary Louise Lamping, Ann Roehm, Julie Zynick, Martha Cartwright, Patriciia Cotter, Judy Stukalski, Mary Jo Cacich, Barbara Schilling, Grace Vervich and Cheryl Wilke.

The commentary for the style show was written by Judy Warren and Virginia Brew. The latter is president of the Home Economics Club. Mrs. Mary C. Sternberg, home economics instructor, will narrate the program.

Fathers Club Achieves Goal

The Edgcliff Fathers Club's Victor Day Dinner was held April 27, presided over by Mr. Edward C. Benson, president. Mr. Benson noted that the funds, which are to be used for the expansion of Brennan Memorial Library, average more than those received last year.

More than eighty fathers of students and alumni were contacted by mail. Approximately thirty-five of them attended. The Fathers Club members visited 200 businesses and industries in the Cincinnati Metropolitan area.

Senior Art Theses Profit Church, College and Community Activities

Seven senior art theses are nearing the finishing stages in Enarg Hall.

Martha Gutzwiler is doing a series of ten plaques to use as visual aid materials in religion classes. "The pictures," said Martha, "are to be used in teaching Christian marriage to high school girls in their religion classes. All of the pictures are Biblical marriage scenes. They are rendered in mixed media, some in water colors, some in colored ink, and others in a realist technique."

The Edgcliff press will reproduce the pictures and distribute them to various high schools. After graduation Martha would like to teach art in high school.

Gail Moorelling is doing an incalculating the inspiration for her thesis. It is an abstract mural done in enamel on a walnut wood base.

Two hundred and fifty-nine copper pieces in the shapes of squares, circles and triangles assembled in blue, green, purple, yellow and gold are attached to rails hammered into the wood base. The entire project is two and half feet by ten feet and a half feet. The colors, due to the medium, make the overall effect "very vibrant," said Gail.

A first draft was made of colored construction paper pinned on cardboard.

Since Louise Niklas feels she expresses herself best in oils, her thesis is rendered in this medium on masonite. There are two separate designs, one abstract and the other "semi-abstract." Each picture measures forty-eight inches square. Louise, who is very interested in op-art, has one of the pictures in this technique. The artist is mainly concerned with design in op-art.

"Christmas Maturity" is the theme of Brother Joseph Schell's eight woodcuts. Bridget chose this theme because it fits in best with her medium, graphics. Representing an abstract design, each will be a different color to catch the mood of the idea. The lettering on each block is of prime importance since it will bring out the theme of martyrdom. Bridge is a part-time teacher at Sacred Heart Academy and will probably continue there after graduating.

Sister Mary Laboure, R.M., and Sister Theresa, O.S.U., are also art majors. Sister Laboure is doing an enamel on copper for her thesis. The mural decoration depicting Christ, the living water, is done as part of an aisle theme. Sister Theresa is doing a study of Villa St. Ursula in various media.

Patricia Shanahan, interested in interior decorating, is creating a geometric mural for the staircases between the second and third floors of Enarg Hall. At Patricia's discretion, paintings, sketches, and lettering will be hung on the wall. A window hanging of barb and chiffon with yarn will be added. Pat also designed mobies - abstract designs for ornamentation - which will be hung in the stair well. Last summer and during the Easter holidays, Patricia worked as an interior decorator. At graduation she plans to enter a career in that field.

The theme on display for the formal dedication of Rosary Gellery and Studios, Sunday, May 16.

Modeling their latest creations for the style show are Grace Vervich (seated), Patricia Cotter and Paula McPhelin.
Seminar Emphasizes U. S. Responsibility

"It's easy," said one of the speakers at Edgcliff's recent Communism Seminar, "to think of the government as a separate and distinct and independent entity — something that exists in Washington to collect our taxes, to protect our national interests, to defend our national interests, to dole out aid to our friendly neighbors. To neglect the government as a separate and distinct entity is a great mistake. It is easy to forget that WE are the government that WE build. That's what the Constitutional Convention meant when it proclaimed: 'We, the people.'"

Mr. Thomas S. Gephardt, editorial page writer for the Cincinnati Enquirer, added that this is why "ordinary patriotism" is on the decline in the United States. This decline reflects the "growth of irresponsibility in the American people, of not caring, of not wanting to get involved."

Mr. Gephardt was one of the four speakers who participated in the April 18 Communism Seminar. Accompanying Mr. Gephardt was Mr. Ed Mason, special agent in charge from the FBI, who gave the introductory speech and spoke later on how "Law Protects the Citizen." Mr. Louis Rhyme, supervisor from FBI office, who spoke on "Fact Finding for Citizens" and Col. Gus Karger, U.S. Citizens Committee of Cincinnati, who spoke on "Soviet Espionage — U.S.A."

The program was conducted in Grace Hall, Room 203, and viewed in the other rooms through closed circuit television.

Reminder
All students must wear academic attire for Honors Day, May 16.

Dance Concert
A dance concert, featured by the students of Christian College, will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 9, in the Edgcliff Academy theatre. It will be open to the public and admission will be charged. The participants are members of the school of Ballet Mrs. von Oettingen conducts at the college and at her own studio, 2481 Madison Road, Hyde Park.

Sodality Group Plans Projects For Girls Town

To provide a different type of atmosphere for the residents of Girls' Town, the Sodality group undertook a friendship apostolate during the second semester. Each Sunday, two or more sodalists spent an afternoon with three or four of the girls. Usually the afternoon included a movie, bowling, or some special activity planned by the sodalists. A hootenanny was sponsored jointly with Regina High School's graduate sodality one Sunday in March. The Edgcliff sodality also went to Girls' Town in a group in February.

At the weekly meetings members volunteered to participate in this project. Members hope to continue the program next year.

"Ship Ahoy" Drops Anchor For Ohio River Cruise

The Chaperon party boat pulling anchor at 8 p.m. May 16 will mark the annual sophomore boat ride. "Ship Ahoy" as its theme, the excursion will dock at midnight.
