Three Honorary Degrees
To Be Conferred May 31

Twenty-six seniors will be graduating with honors this year. Summa cum laude degrees will be conferred on, from left, Barbara Hopkins (Chemistry), Marilyn Sunderman (Spanish), and Anne Weseling (Biology). Graduating magna cum laude are Mary Jo Schranta, Kathleen Schnelle, Arldith Groes, Paula Thor- man, Monica Hibbert, Martha Weisenberger, and Rosemary Kammer.

Degrees will be granted cum laude to Patricia Danneman, Linda Auer, Karen Kelkman, Carol Mus- thing, Sandra Korfaghan, Mary Star Eckel, Susan Wahlen, Nancy Bellivan, Gretchen Gunden, Mary Richter, Jeanne Egan-McCaffrey, Mary Byrne, Susan Lauer, Grace Schwab, Jeanne Melian, and Dora Bush.

Among the 1970 graduates is a first for Edgecliff. Mary Richter and Sister Mary Catherine Bohler, R.H.M., will be the first Theology majors to receive degrees.

Addresses Convocation

C. Jenkins Voted 'Excellent'

Mrs. Carolyn Jenkins, assistant professor of sociology, received the college's second "Excellence in Teaching" award at the May faculty dinner.

Mrs. Jenkins is completing her fifth year as a member of the Edgecliff faculty. She received her A.B. in 1965 from Thomas More College and her M.Ed. from Xavier University in 1969. She is also a member of the student affairs committee and moderator of the Sociology Club which recently received Student Government's "Club of the Year" award.

It is traditional that the faculty member who receives the "Excellence in Teaching" award give the address at the Honors Convocation. Mrs. Jenkins spoke about "The Best Years of Your Life." She said that "your college years could be summarised as gaining pains."

Mrs. Jenkins said that the aspect leads to Patricia Danneman, Linda Auer, Karen Kelkman, Carol Mus- thing, Sandra Korfaghan, Mary Star Eckel, Susan Wahlen, Nancy Bellivan, Gretchen Gunden, Mary Richter, Jeanne Egan-McCaffrey, Mary Byrne, Susan Lauer, Grace Schwab, Jeanne Melian, and Dora Bush.

Private College is the Victor

This past decade, we, as college students, have made history. The campus crises have left us feeling like they've been going on too long. It's time to train — want to be educated — to question the problem and seek the answer. Where does Edgewood actually stand? Why hasn't anybody taken over the Administration Building yet? The answer is easy enough — we don't know.

This might sound like we're tooting our own horns again, but we should. We've come out ahead; the small private institution is the victor. The award was accepted by Dr. Robert Ellerhorst and will rest in the current campus rest is the abolition of the monster institutions. How our campus was chosen among Dr. Robert Ellerhorst, Mr. Charles Thomson, and Mr. Donata Fazioli is yet to be determined. The award was presented to Mr. Heistand. A very proper award, I must say. Other nominations for the Stu­dent Government were Sister Rosine, Sister Dianne, and, of course, Miss Deela — you're appreciated.

S. G. Reps. Defend Parking Proposal

Dear Editor,

To those students who feel that the parking problem was "grossly mishandled," we would like to say that we members of Student Government did what we thought was right.

If the students were dissatisfied with the parking they had themselves to blame. There were a number of open meetings for these people to come and express their opinions. Only a few people attended. If there would be a meeting in McAleer Hall sentencing students to a parking lot, would they show up? Would they leave the situation and present new ideas or defend their own parking places. But how many came to this meeting?

It is easy to criticize others, but it seems that perhaps something more could have been accomplished if those "satisfied" students ap­preciated in forming the proposal when they had all these opportuni­ties.

The fee was determined by what was necessary (and if you compare it to other schools, which we did, you will find that it is not out of line). Certainly if decisions were based on what we wanted, no car would be paying tuition either.

It seems strange that there are so many people dissatisfied with the class representation, but none of these people were willing to give of themselves in the recent election for representatives. Many of those people were willing to tum anything but certainly not to want so desperately.

Diane Dube, Diane Henne, and, of course, Miss Deela — you're appreciated.

Accentuate The Positive

"Have you heard that Edgewood...?"

Chances are you've heard a few good rumors. Everybody knows that when things are going good, there are always a few people who make it their job to turn things upside-down.

If you're one of these places, we are becoming better known; our departments are growing better and stronger; our administration is young and alert; our whole community is alive and well. Actually, it is getting better and better. (Test, tool!)

Sure there are some things that need to be improved, but the point is that our positive outweighs the negative. Naturally there will be people who are upset about the situation, but we can't stop these people. We can DO our share in ameliorating the negative comments, though. We need to appreciate all of Edgewood should let these things be known. Remember, for every derogatory remark that is made, it takes three good comments to outweigh it.

Our best recruitment tool is our own enthusiasm.

Dear Steve,

This seems to be the month for congratulations and things related. My congratulations to the Social Club for being selected "Club of the Year" by Student Government. I'm sure every member of this canvas has been touched by some project you have worked on this year, from the very interesting editions of Sco-Cos to the well planned Souvenir. The annual dinner dance was a smashing success. The award was presented to Mr. Heistand. A very proper award, I must say. Other nominations for the Student Government were Sister Rosine, Sister Dianne, and, of course, Miss Deela — you're appreciated.

While I'm on the subject, it is only proper to give my congratulations to the winning candidates for the SPCA award were Sister Rosine, Sister Margaret and Robert Heistand. The award was presented to Mr. Heistand. A very proper award, I must say — a belt.

Two nominations for the "newly crowned" faculty member's Emmy were: Michael R. McDonald (the chess player) and Sister Rita (as a member of the Student Senate). Sister Rita received the award — a skull in living memory of the late Sister Yasmolk.

The Emmy for the "Morning That Edews Came" went to Dr. Charles Schlegel for his well received 1966 calendar.

The award for the most active liberal was awarded to Sister Luce with the support of Dr. Robert Ellerhorst, Mr. Robert Miller, Mr. Donald Heistand, and Mr. Edward Mad. The letter was presented to them, they were told they would receive a copy of one of the current periodicals.

As you might not know, the "Flying Field Finger of Fate" was presented to Dr. Robert S. Ellerhorst, Mr. Robert Heistand, and Mrs. Norma Ellerhorst. The letter was accepted by Dr. Siegmund Betz.

More important, I say.

Since I have only four more inches of type left I better start

It's no wonder there is campus unrest — this is what results when there are classes of 500, computer-graded tests, and closed circuit TV professors. Taking over the Administration Building is the students' way of letting Mr. America know how it really is on the monster institution campus.

Can you even imagine this whole situation at Edgewood? It seems impossible to do. It's at times like these when we realize that we have what university students are looking for. We have open door open door . . . the signs read, "Please Come In!" We have all that we need for "cultivating our own capacity for independent study, for developing our own intellectual powers of critical judgment, and for asserting in the spirit of Magna Carta firmly and openly into the pressing issues of our day."

We've got it and we must make sure we don't lose it ... It's where it's at.

Seniors: This is Your Life—Past and Future

Scholars:

For a number of seniors, college was only a beginning step in the process of continuing education. Here are some of those who will be entering graduate schools this fall:

Joe Bridges will be at Iowa University, Iowa City, on his twelve-month Dietetic Internship and Graduate Work Program. He will major in nutrition and will finish his masters by 1972.

Peggy Gibson has received a graduate fellowship in Toxicology at the University of Cincinnati. Barbara Hopkins received a three-year fellowship to the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., to be used in study in chemistry.

Martha Sunderman has received a University Graduate Scholarship in the department of Romance Languages and Literature at U.C. The scholarship includes travel and study.

Anne Veeseling received an assistantship to the U.C. department of microbiology.

Other students doing graduate work include:

Joanna Bardoowell, School Psychology, University of Cincinnati.

Shelia Cahill Prichetti, University of Cincinnati, working towards certification.

Mary Lee Gibbs, English, undecided.

Gretchen Gundrum, Masters in French, Middlebury, Vermont, summer of 1971.

Kathy Osterhage, psychology, hopefully at Xavier University.

Instructors:

Several seniors will be on the other side of the desk next year:

Grace Schnell and Sue Willhite are going to teach remedial math at St. Xavier School. Linda Auer is awaiting further information from several Indian mission schools to determine where she will teach. Paula Thorman will teach Black and Hispanic-American history in Dallas. Judy Engielt will be teaching at St. Jude's in Bridgeport, in a non-graded situation.

Mary Kate O'Hara will be teaching at St. Patrick's school, Bebe, Arizona, with the remainder of the enrollment Mexican children. Carolyn Bean hopes to teach elementary education around Washington, D.C. Sister Mary Agatha, R.S.M., is "delighted" that she is going back to teach the first grade at St. Vincent de Paul School, Toledo, Ohio. During the summer she plans to work with migrants in the Upper Sandusky area. Janice Meyer will teach third grade at St. Catherine's School in Westwood. Diane Elshold will also teach at St. Catherine's. Kathleen Gartner plans to teach fourth grade at Little Flower, Mt. Airy. Ruth Ann Mayer will teach fourth grade at Immaculate Heart of Mary School, Mt. Washington. Lillian Koeller will be in Springfield, O., at St. Teresa School, fourth grade.

Sister Mary Jeff will teach in Guardian Angels' science department on the fifth grade level. Joanna Mathaus will be an English teacher at St. Ursula Academy. Mary Roseanne Richer plans to teach high school religion at La Salle Academy, Cleveland. Carol Moulting and Sue Wahlen will be teaching at Notre Dame Academy, Park Hills, Ky. Carol will teach social studies, Sue, English. Peggy Dunley and Monica Humest will be teaching at Regina High School—Peggy, Spanish and Menicco, American history. Kathleen Schnell will be a French and math teacher at Mt. Notre Dame High School, Reading, 0.

Joanne Bardoowell and Gretchen Gundrum will be at Molfichius High. Joanne will teach five classes of psychology to seniors. Gretchen will teach French and religion. Eliza Byers will be working for the Cincinnati Public Schools on the secondary level. She will be teaching English and possibly some French. Linda Beckett plans to teach German in one of the Cincinnati area school systems. Carolyn Baker will be teaching for the Norwood School District. Pamela Loski is applying for a teaching position at Fire School, Mt. Airy.

Several seniors will be on the minds of these seniors after graduation:

Joanne Bardoowell and Gretchen Gundrum, fourth grade.

Jeanne Reading, teaching at Notre Dame School.

Judy Bisbee, Arizona, teaching at Carol Muelhing.

Kathleen Schnell, teaching at St. Francis Xavier in Westwood. Diane Eichhold to Terry Torbeck, Maggie Pfister to Daniel Garcia, Mary Kuhin to Dave Heiny, Barbara Bentley to Daniel Garcia, Mary Pfister to James I. McNally, Maggie Pfister to Michael A. Greely, Aug. 22.

And last but not least, Mary Lee Gibbs will be "panhandling on 6th and Vine."

Brides:

"Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue" will be on the minds of these seniors after graduation:

Gina Hirt to Denis Schmitt, June 6.

Sus Kocher to Thomas Brevig, June 18.

Mary Jo Schrems to James Walsh, June 27.

Pamela Loski to Don Haun, July 4.

Barbara Gessinger to Denis Garcia, July 11.

Kathleen Schnell to Michael P. Nyktield, Aug. 3.

Mary Beth Gilmarston to Thomas F. Orkia, Aug. 12.

Joanna Bardoowell to Dave Heiny, Aug. 22.

Dorothy Krehm to Bill Matson, Aug. 22.

Maggie Pfister to Michael A. Greely, Aug. 22.

Kathy Osterhage to James L. McAllister, Jr., Aug. 28.

Linda Haladay to Bill McDonough, Sept. 4.

Kathy Adams to Dick Gebelman, November.

Diane Elshold to Terry Torbeck, Nov. 15.

Carolyn Baker to Gary W. Schrader, December.

Mariana Munter to Gerald Bormuth, April, 1971.
Four Pairs of Roommates Make It Four Years

by Diana Hanson

"It's almost like being sisters." That's the way Mary Lou Luthman and Ann Miller describe their experience of being roommates for the past four years. But they're not the only pair who have had this experience. Diane Eicholland and Linnea Kosater, Chris Hill and Cathy Higgins, and Jeanne Bordwell and Linda Keck also have remained with their original roommates all during college.

The main reason for their compatibility, the right ages, was the fact that they each went their own ways. Yet during those four years, each had the chance to know and understand her roommate; there was no need to adjust to a new one every year or two. Ann explains that she and Mary Lou are "kind of a strange combination, as far as interests are concerned. Ann is a drama major; Mary Lou is in political science. But they share anything that each can use, such as jewelry and dress shoes. After graduation they will still be roommates—Ann, Mary Lou and another girl will be sharing an apartment.

Common Interests

Unlike the first two, Diane and Linnea feel that one reason they got along so well is because they have quite a few common interests.

"We had classes together and therefore we would often study together," Linnea remarked. "Our common interests were Terry and Terry. Diane's fiancé's name is Terry; Linnea's boyfriend's name is Terry. Linnea's party name is Terry and Linnea's night name is Terry. One occasion this caused a slight problem when a note was left on their door which merely stated that "Terry called.

As Diane thought back to her first arrival at the dorm, she recalled, "I thought Linnea was a foreigner when I saw her name on the door." Linnea remarked, "Diane's clothes are too small for me." Diane jokingly commented, "The only thing that has really kept us together is Diane's FM radio.

Chris and Cathy explained: "We were in high school together for four years and it was a bit of each other but at that time we were not real close friends.

Sister Monogram

While they feel that their personalities are quite different, they do share some incidents—they are sociology majors, they have the same monograms and their mail boxes are side by side. Chris will be maid of honor in Cathy's wedding.

Roommates Joanna and Linda find that they have very different interests. Joanna is a psychology major while Linda's interests are in the field of art.

Joanna feels that "by being together for four years you really get to know the other person and think of a lot of problems. For instance, you get to know the other person's habits, like when she wants to study and so on. It's more like home, being with the same person.

Joanna and Linda agree that "consideration is really important for roommates.

SENIORS USE QUESTIONNAIRE TO VOICE THEIR LAST WORDS

On the questionnaire seniors were asked to fill out for THE EDGECLIFF's report on senior news, a space was provided for additional comments. So here are their "last words":

Ann Miller: I have no plans for the coming year. I am not planning to go but will really live life for a change.

Barb Lehman: I am sick to death of school, and being "educated." I have no time to really educate myself and be myself.

Gina Hirn: My fiancé is going to take over his father's mixt ranch there at his home in Fort Recovery!

Ardith Grote: Eventually, I hope to take some graduate courses at night in the field of chemistry.

Sandy Manfil: M-G-M hasn't discovered this rare beauty, waiting around for the foreign Express! Listen, you all did a great job on the paper.

Ann Rohman: You know where you can reach me?

Mary Lee Gibbons: I'm very interested in P.B. work, having worked with Mrs. Doering, Edgarcliff dynamo.

Shelby Galloway: After seventeen years of attending college, I'm ecstatic at the thought of finally getting a B.A.

Joe Bridges: I am proud and very happy that I am graduating from Edgecliff. I would have wanted to go to any other school—really!!

Mary DeGilmartin: As president of the Spanish Club, I would like to thank our moderator, Dr. Pura Miyar, who has been so helpful; the other Spanish teachers, Mrs. Miyar, and Dr. Vega; the Spanish Club Advisor, Peggy Dundee, vice-president, Carol Brichman, secretary-treasurer, and Angela Hagen, corresponding secretary, and all the members for their continued help and support.

Carol Mussials: Amen!
K. Schuessler to Represent Ideas, Needs of Residents

Kathy Schuessler was recently elected president of the Resident House Council. Asked what she felt her office involved, Kathy said she must "represent the ideas and needs of the girls in the dorm and act as the head of the dorm council. "We need more unity in the dorm to create a more adult community. If we could get more unity, the actions the girls want could come faster." Kathy added that she is looking into the status of proctor. "Perhaps we could initiate a proctor-orientation," she said. "We have formed a general dorm activities committee to see about the possibilities of expanding recreational facilities. There has been a re-activation of the food committee consisting of faculty, students and a representative of the food service. Next year we are hoping for dorm-sponsored activities to bring the girls together in working on something."

In conclusion, Kathy said that she wanted to stress that the dorm meetings are open.

Retiring S. G. President Discusses Past, Future

Carol Musilting has retired as president of the Student Government. From her past year of experience she can see what must and can be done in the future—"Because we had a lot of people working with us, we were able to get quite a bit done. This proves that the Student Government is workable. There have been some issues, both on our campus and issues that pertain to students everywhere, that we have had to deal with," Carol began.

Looking toward the future, Carol saw some problems that will face the students.

"The students have been getting more and more involved. There has been a realization to give them any of the responsibilities that go with these freedoms. We're still being protected from the consequences."

She said that Student Government representatives face problems in trying to come to a decision. "People don't realize that we can't go out and count noses."

"We are getting more diversified as a student body and this leads to a more varied opinion-scape. What we need now is for everyone to be open-minded and be aware of — for example, in Student Government there has been more disagreement on issues then in any other year. The voting has not been unanimous, the members feel free to express what is on their minds."

Carol mentioned that one of the things she has come to realize this past year is that "you don't measure the success of a program by a 100% attendance."

by Kitty Vehr

Newly installed Student Government officers for the 1970-71 school year discussed with THE EDGECLIFF their views of their offices and the relation of these to the college in general. Members of the panel are: Peggy Clark, president: Pat Pinciot­ti, vice-president; Sue Walsh, secretary; Rosemarie Pandy, treasurer.

Q: Peggy and Pat, why do you think you were un contested in your bid for office?

Peggy: I couldn't say. At first I thought that there would be a million people running and they would all be better than I would be. Then I saw that there wasn't anyone running, and I thought that someone has to do it.

Pat: I think it was because we ran on a ticket. If the election weren't run on a ticket there would have been more people taking part. The school is too small for us to run the election this way.

Q: What do you personally feel your office involves?

Peggy: Dealing with what comes up in the school and trying to establish an attitude that the students can identify with.

Pat: My main concern is working closely with the Student Government president. The office also involves being co-ordinator of the clubs that exist on campus.

Q: My job is to keep everyone informed of the decisions reached by the officers through posting minutes and posters.

Q: Are there any objections in your office and do you have any specific program in mind for next year?

Peggy: I would like to see more support of speakers. For this reason, we have given a larger percentage of the budget to the speaker's program.

Q: Do you have any ideas to increase student participation and communication?

Pat: We need more students on standing committees. The elections should also be open to members of all classes.

Peggy: I agree about the elections. I am also in favor of repealing the Parents' Weekend again next year.
